INVITATION TO KUROKI IS SENT BY TELEGRAPH

Japan's Great Soldier Will Receive It When He Reaches Seattle Wednesday.

RAILROADS NOW BUSY

Committee Will Be Named to Solicit Funds to Defray Cost of Entertainment.

Arrangements are being made to have the official invitation to visit St. Louis presented to Lieutenant-General Baron Kuroki by S. Hisamidsu, the Japanese Consul at Seattle, immediately on his arrival there next Wednesday.

It is expected that the formal written invitation, signed by Mayor Wells and the members of the Municipal Assembly committee, will reach Seattle in advance of Gen. Kuroki, but to avoid the possibility of not having it there on time. A copy of the message has been forwarded to Consul Hisamidsu by wire and a reply is expected from him stating that he will present the telegraphic copy if the original does not come into his possession by the time Gen. Kuroki arrives.

The General is coming on the Japanese steamship Aki Maru. A dispatch from Victoria, B. C., to the Post-Dispatch states that the steamer Empress of China, which arrived there Sunday from Yokohama, brought news that the Aki Maru would reach Seattle Wednesday and that Baron Kuroki and his party were given an enthusiastic farewell at Yokohama when they sailed.

The dispatch says the plan of the party when they sailed was to start directly east from Seattle. It also says that the Kuroki party includes several Japanese naval officers and is accompanied by Baron Oswa, vice-president of the Japanese Red Cross Society, who is on his way to London to attend the international Red Cross conference.

Railroads Are Interested.

The committee of members of the Municipal Assembly and the presidents of the business men's organizations, which met Saturday and authorized the invitation of Gen. Kuroki, understood that the party planned to go directly from Seattle and it was agreed that it would be well to interest the railroads running between Seattle and St. Louis to bestir themselves to see that the Kuroki party proceeds East over their lines.

Councilman Cramer, who presided at the meeting, conferred with railroad officials Monday with the result that they are already in communication with the officials who are arranging the itinerary of Gen. Kuroki and his party.

At the suggestion of those enthusiastically interested in bringing Gen. Kuroki to St. Louis, Mr. Cramer sent a telegram to Consul Hisamidsu at Seattle Monday morning, giving him the full text of the invitation now en route to him by mail and requesting that, in the event that the mailed invitation did not reach him by the time Gen. Kuroki arrived, to kindly present the telegraphic copy.

President Smith of the Business Men's League also wired Consul Hisamidsu Monday officially informing him that the invitation is on its way and assuring him of the desire of St. Louis to gain the General's acceptance, if possible.

Mr. Cramer stated to the Post-Dispatch Monday that he will name a finance committee to raise sufficient funds to defray the expenses of entertaining Gen. Kuroki as soon as the General's acceptance is received.

"With the definite sum of $100 from the Post-Dispatch to start the list and with the financial assurance of support from the heads of the industrial organizations made at Saturday's meeting," he said, "I feel that sufficient fund can be obtained in a few hours. There are too many public-spirited citizens in St. Louis to permit me to doubt this."

RAIN TONIGHT.
FAIR TUESDAY
Sunshine for the Last Day of April.

THE TEMPERATURE.

12 midnight	69	8 a. m.	66
2 a. m.	67	10 a. m.	58
4 a. m.	66	12 m.	53
6 a. m.	64	2 p. m.	50

A driving rain, which poured down on St. Louis this morning out of a grayish, green sky, rebuked those who were too joyful over the smiles of spring yesterday. The rain was a genuine burst of anger on the part of capricious April.

But to make amends for this severity she promises on Tuesday to roll the clouds away, let the sun shine genially, and gladden the earth with a day of indulgence.

The official forecast is: "Threating, with showers this afternoon and tonight; Tuesday, fair and warmer."

Temperatures all over the country Monday are mild and warm, on the whole. Only Omaha is down to the freezing point, with St. Paul at 34 and Kansas City at 36. It is warmest in New Orleans, where a temperature of 74 prevails. New York is just mid-table at 58, with San Francisco as company. Washington is 54, Chicago 62, Pittsburg 56, Cincinnati 66 and Boston 58.

EAGLE VISITS SHIP AT SEA.

Exhausted, Bird Pecks Sailor Who Offers It Food.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 29.—When the Anchor Line steamship Columbia, from Glasgow and Moville, was about 200 miles southeast of Cape Race last Saturday noon a large American eagle was seen bearing toward the ship. The bird was flying low and several times just missed being caught by the crest of a sea. It was making slow progress and seemed almost exhausted. As the bird neared the ship it managed to soar once more in the air; the next moment it dropped to the fore truck, where it alighted.

After balancing himself on his perch for a short time the eagle began to take notice of its surroundings. A kind-hearted sailor, supposing the eagle to be hungry, filled a tin cup with crushed hominy and oatmeal, and, holding it in one hand, climbed the mast. The eagle turned his head and then viciously pecked at the sailor's hand. With a cry of pain the man dropped the cup and hastily descended the mast. There was a long gash in his hand, and it was bleeding freely. The wound was so painful that the ship's doctor had to dress it.

No further overtures of friendship were made to the fowl. About nightfall the bird spread his wings and flew away in the direction of the land, which was far to the north.

HE BORROWED CARFARE.

Man Later Tried to Break Into Physician's Home.

A man calling himself Edward Johnson was arrested Sunday night while trying to get into the home of Dr. James Stewart, 4847 Page boulevard.

The man called at the home of Dr. Stewart Sunday afternoon and asked for carfare. Dr. Stewart gave him 5 cents.

"It is very seldom one meets with a gentleman so kind as you. Would you mind giving me your card so I may return your loan?" said the man.

Dr. Stewart gave him a card.

About 10 p. m. the same man called at the grocery of H. Heinecke, 1247 Walton avenue, and tried to cash a check for $17 purporting to be signed by George Norp and bearing the alleged endorsement of E. E. Chance. Heinecke refused to cash the check. The man then returned to the Stewart residence and attempted to get in. The police were called and he was arrested.

In the prisoner's pocket was found a pocket medicine case, which was identified as having been stolen from the residence of Dr. W. L. Reed, 4201 West Belle place.

Johnson refused to make any statement to the police.

"HELLO GIRL" ON DUTY.

Miss Margaret Gramin to Keep Sager's Secrets.

Miss Margaret Gramin, a pretty telephone operator, of 3726 Bernard street, is the young woman to whom, by her appointment as "hello girl" at the Fourt Courts, opportunity is given to refute a widespread aspersion upon her sex.

When the proposition was first broached of installing a telephone system there, several officials objected on the ground that it would be impossible to find a girl operator so free from the garrulity attributed to her sex as to be able to keep the momentous secrets which the City Attorneys and faith that such a paragon could be discovered.

Miss Gramin placed the receiver about her head, began shifting the plugs and saying "hello" to everybody for the first time at 1 p. m. Monday.

RATHER DIE THAN WED.

Girl Killed by Jilted Lover, Who Shoots Himself.

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—Because she said she would rather die than marry him, Martha Corias, a German servant girl, was shot and killed almost instantly here today by Franz Andrewkaty, the man who wanted to make her his wife. The murderer then turned the revolver upon himself and inflicted a wound which probably will prove fatal.

The young woman had left the home of her employer to purchase bread. Andrewkaty followed her into a bakery. A brief conversation ensued, which ended with the shooting.

$1500 MONUMENT FOR DOG.

Animal Who Saved Master's Son Has Pretty Grave.

WATERLOO, Io., April 29.—The devoted love of a shepherd dog for its master's son, whose life was saved from drowning several years ago, has caused Jacob Slifer of Grundy County to spend $1500 for a monument for the dog's grave. The marble base will be surmounted with the carving of a shepherd dog, cut from Indiana granite, weighing 600 pounds. The dog's grave is in a beautiful plot of ground, shaded by an evergreen grove. This dog risked its own life to save its master's son. Slifer has provided in his will a bequest for the care of the grave.

BLOOD CAME THROUGH SKIN

Kentucky Farmer Dies of a Peculiar Malady.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 29.—J. Harlan May died in a local hospital here Saturday of a peculiar malady. May, who was a prosperous farmer of McGoffin County, two weeks ago began to lose his blood. The blood began oozing from his skin and the efforts of the physicians to cause the proper coagulation of the blood were of no avail, and he finally became so weak that he died of exhaustion. When first attacked May weighed 220 pounds; he began to lose weight at the rate of four pounds a day, until he was so exhausted that he could not get about.

SLEDGE DOGS FOR JOURNEY.

Wellman-Record-Herald Expedition Gets 29 Animals.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 29.—Through the agency of the American Consul-General, Mr. Watts, a train of 29 Siberian sledge dogs has been provided for the Wellman-Chicago-Record-Herald expedition. They were obtained in the remote interior of Siberia and are now at Tobolsk. The dogs will be shipped via Archangel to Wellman's base in Norway.

Negress Dies, Aged 101.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., April 29.—Mrs. Ellen Phillips, a negress, died at her home in Georgetown yesterday, aged 101 years. She was born in Kentucky and once belonged to the Clay family. She came to Missouri before the war.

LABOR AT PEACE WITH CAPITAL AT ALL POINTS

No Likelihood of Strikes of Moment on Industrial Horizon.

HIGH WAGES IN ST. LOUIS

Some Workmen Getting More Than During the World's Fair.

WAGES PAID IN ST. LOUIS TODAY.

Nat'l Steam and Hot Water Fitters, $5.50.
Steam Fitters' Helpers, $3.
International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, $4.50.
Gas Fitters, $5.
Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators, $4.
Plumbers' Laborers, $2.
Composition Roofers $4.
United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, $4.80.
Slate and Tile Roofers, $5.
Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers, $4.50.
United Elevator Constructors, $4.40.
Marble Setters and Tile Layers, $5.
Hoisting Engineers, $5.
Journeymen Stone Cutters, $5.
Sprinkler Fitters, $4.50.
Structural Iron Workers, $4.80.
Stone Masons' Laborers, $3.
Pipe Coverers, $5.
Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers, $3.50.
Cut Stone Laborers and Derrick Men, $4.50.
Stonemasons, $4.40.
Millwrights, $4.40.

Of all the industrial centers in the United States which count their wages earners by the thousands, in which labor organizations are the strongest and in which labor disturbances occur annually with the advent of May 1, St. Louis will undoubtedly be the most peaceful this year.

Reports from the officials of the two big central organizations, the Central Trades and Labor Union and the Building Trades Council, indicate that there will not be any strike of moment.

Whatever disturbances in the labor world may take place in this city will be on individual jobs or in isolated shops. Not a business agent of any of the big unions has reported at the headquarters of either organization that he expects serious trouble.

More than 100,000 union men will go quietly to their places of employment in and about St. Louis Wednesday morning, and don their working apparel with the understanding that for at least one year they will be paid the scale of wages agreed upon by their own representatives in session with the employers.

The situation in St. Louis, labor men say, is most remarkable. The surplus of skilled labor is at the ebb which is not only pleasing to the mechanic but to the employer as well. St. Louis escaped the depressing effects that followed the close of the World's Fair in Chicago, and also escaped the general labor troubles which were prevalent in that city for several years. This city has not only passed safely through what the labor men expected to be a panicky stage as regarded wages, but with the advent of this May day all of the organizations—particularly those identified with the Building Trades Council—are receiving the same or better wages than they did during the prosperous days attending the construction of the Fair buildings.

The wages now being paid to building trades in St. Louis, given to the Post-Dispatch Monday by Mr. Shackelmore, secretary of the Building Trades Council, are based on an eight-hour day. They appear above.

Increases for Two Bodies.

The two organizations in the building line that have been granted increases in wages over the World's Fair scale are the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Decorators and the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, both of which now get 5 cents an hour more than they did in 1904.

The machinists, who are affiliated with the Building Trades Council, have for the most part settled their differences with the employers—manufacturers, railroads and jobbing shops, but no set rate of pay is given. The same is true of the Granitoid and Cement Workers, whose wages depend upon the number of hours they work each day.

The bakers have not made a complete settlement, but it is not believed that there will be any trouble from that source.

The brewery workers and the butchers' strikes are no longer threatened, because both have made agreements—the butchers through their national organization and the brewery workers through their local representatives.

H. W. Steinbiss, secretary of the National Building Trades Council, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday morning that the same conditions prevailing in St. Louis are present in every big city in the country. "It will be a year of peace," said Mr. Steinbiss. "From no quarter have I received word of trouble on May 1. It looks as if everyone was employed, all receiving good wages and that everyone is satisfied."

NO GAME TODAY.

It was officially announced at 1:30 p. m. that the ball game scheduled for Monday afternoon between the Browns and the Cleveland teams, American League, had been called off owing to wet grounds. The game will be played Tuesday, an open date for both clubs, after which the same teams will finish the week out in Cleveland.

GARLAND MOORE ON TRIAL.

Slayer of Sweetheart to Plead Emotional Insanity.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 29.—The trial of Garland B. Moore of Bois d'Arc, charged with the murder of Clara West, his sweetheart, began this morning, after many delays. Emotional insanity will be the defense. Moore killed Clara West with a knife, stabbing her eight times, in the home of her uncle at Bois d'Arc, following her dismissal of his attentions. Fifty talesmen have been summoned and the selection of the jury took up the day.

GOV. LITTLE'S ILLNESS TO BE INVESTIGATED

Arkansas Legislature Wants Report on His Condition Before Adjournment.

WILL APPOINT COMMITTEE

Prolonged Absence Causes Much Comment—Hay Hold Special Election.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 29.—Senator John J. B. Simms will introduce a resolution in the Senate today providing for the appointment of a committee of two Senators and three representatives to investigate into the condition of Gov. John L. Little, who is under treatment in Corpus Christi. The resolution provides that the investigation and report be made as soon as possible and that it be thorough.

It was decided to present the resolution following a number of conferences of senators yesterday. It was the unanimous sentiment that the air of mystery surrounding the Governor's illness be cleared up before the Legislature adjourned, and if necessary to adopt measures to relieve the situation.

At the time of Gov. Little's removal to the sanitarium it was stated that he had merely been overworked and that in a short time he would be all right. Physicians said all he needed was a complete rest from business cares. But there have been rumors in circulation for some time to the effect that the Governor had suffered a mental collapse. It is these stories that have caused the discussion among the senators and inspired the resolution that will be introduced today.

Since Gov. Little's confinement in the sanitarium Lieutenant-Governor Ike Moore has been acting as Governor and performing all the duties of the State's chief executive. In the event that it is decided that Gov. Little is incapacitated to serve as the chief executive of the State during his term Lieutenant-Governor Moore will probably be selected as Governor.

Gov. Little suffered a complete collapse three days after taking the oath of office. He was then removed to his home at Greenwood in Sebastian County. Later he was removed to Corpus Christi, Tex., and has since been at the gulf city. Throughout the five months legislative session not a member of either legislative body has ever shown a letter in the handwriting of Gov. Little.

All the news that has been received has been through the press reports or through his son and private secretary, Paul Little, who has visited him twice during this time. These have for a period of five months contained the same information. "The Governor is improving rapidly" is the substance of a brief item that has appeared in every paper in the State daily and weekly for four months.

It has been officially stated here that Gov. Little and party will leave Corpus Christi on May 12. The Legislature adjourns May 14. Gov. Little and party are not scheduled to reach Chicago, and also escaped the general labor troubles which were prevalent in that city for several years. This city has not only passed safely through what the labor men expected to be a panicky stage as regarded wages, but with the advent of this May day all of the organizations—particularly those identified with the Building Trades Council—are receiving the same or better wages than they did during the prosperous days attending the construction of the Fair buildings.

May Hold Special Election.

The opinion created much surprise. It was written in response to a request from former Lieutenant-Governor John P. Lee, who was in doubt as to the situation.

Gov. Little will no doubt return to the State on May 12, but that is but two days before the Legislature adjourns, and this body wants to send a committee to ascertain the condition of the Governor, so that it may suggest or order a special election if the condition seems to warrant such an action. In the event of a special election being ordered no members of either of the legislative bodies could be a candidate for the office.

There is already talk of entreating former United States Senator Berry to enter the race if the special election is ordered. He was defeated for United States Senator in th last general election by Gov. Jeff Davis, who had held the office of Chief Executive for six years previous to running for the position of United States Senator.

So far advanced has the situation grown that the capital city is being thronged with prominent politicians from every section who realize that something of importance may develop from an investigation into the actual condition of Gov. John S. Little.

After the Explosion at Luxemburg, Which Killed Two and Injured Eight

JOHN ROPITSCH.

SAW MISS LAURIE GREATLY EXCITED

City Fireman Testifies That She Was Disheveled and Seemed Lost.

Andrew Forrest, city fireman of company No. 24, testified at the Coroner's inquest Monday, that he had seen at 6 a. m. Thursday Miss Agnes Laurie of 4203 Morgan street, whose body was found that night in the Mississippi River at the mouth of the Des Peres. She was in an excited and disheveled condition, he stated, and boarded a Cherokee car, southbound, at Twelfth and Spruce streets, with the expectation of getting an Easton avenue transfer.

Forrest, on taking the stand was in doubt relative to the day he had seen her, but before leaving the chair positively fixed it as Thursday.

Herman Hoene of 1820 Oregon avenue, the letter carrier who was the first to identify the body of Miss Laurie, gave testimony clearing up the confusion that had followed his first report to the police.

Forrest fixed the time and place of seeing Miss Laurie by the fact that he was on his way to breakfast. He did not know Miss Laurie, but her peculiar actions led him later to visit the Morgue and identify her as the woman he had seen Thursday morning.

Her waist was entirely unbuttoned down the back when he first saw her at Twelfth and Spruse streets, boarded the first car that apparently boarded the first car that approached. Forrest took a Tower Grove car following the Cherokee car and in the middle of the Twelfth street bridge apparently disappeared. In Miss Laurie's trunk he found $25 in cash and the refund voucher for $20 which she had obtained upon returning a ticket purchased to New York and which was later traced back to the railroad company when Miss Laurie determined to stay in St. Louis until the calling of her case Monday in the Circuit Court. The trip to Scotland, whence she derived an income of $50 a month, would have required upwards of $100.

She had secured judgment in a Justice Court for $500 against M. E. Wixon, from whom she had purchased a World's Fair boarding house.

Attorney Canaday, 601 Chemical Building, who represented Miss Laurie, was summoned to appear at the continued inquest Monday afternoon.

The case was continued Saturday in order to give time to make a chemical analysis of some green substance found in the dead woman's stomach. Dr. Lebrecht reported to Deputy Lloyd that the substance was river slime and that he found no indication that Miss Laurie had died from poisoning.

TOWN FLOODED; 3000 NOW ARE WITHOUT HOMES

Seven Missing and Much Property Is Damaged in Oklahoma City Suburb.

OKLAHOMA CITY, O. T., April 29.—A cloudburst over Capital Hill, a suburb of this city, just south of the Canadian River, last night, flooded that place. Seven persons are missing and reported drowned. Many persons camped on the lowlands near the river were caught unawares and had but little time to make their escape.

The river is bankful and it will be some time before it can be determined if any lives were really lost. There was another heavy rainfall this morning, which caused the river to rise higher, endangering property in the lowlands.

at 710 North Sixth street, East St. Louis. The fact that Hoene had not entered the slab room after making the request was at first taken by the police to indicate that the letter carrier had sent out the alarm before the body had been identified.

Detective O'Brien, who has been assigned to the case, has been endeavoring to account for $60 which Miss Laurie apparently disappeared. In Miss Laurie's trunk he found $25 in cash and the refund voucher for $20 which she had obtained upon returning a ticket purchased to New York and which was later traced back to the railroad company when Miss Laurie determined to stay in St. Louis until the calling of her case Monday in the Circuit Court. The trip to Scotland, whence she derived an income of $50 a month, would have required upwards of $100.

CALLED STRANGER TO DYING MOTHER

Girl Ran Into Street Crying, "Mamma Has Taken Carbolic Acid."

Little Myrtle Scheer, aged 12, ran from her mother's flat at 2615 Olive street shorty after 8 a. m. Monday, and throwing her arms around the neck of a strange woman, passing in the street, cried out: "My mamma's going to die; she's taken carbolic acid."

The woman thus appealed to, though she carried an infant in her arms, ran to a drug store, purchased a bottle of olive oil and hurried upstairs with the sobbing girl.

They found Mrs. Emma A. Scheer stretched across a bed, in great pain and dying. The good Samaritan, who was Mrs. Walter Hinton of Nevada, Mo., poured olive oil between the burned lips of the dying woman and sent the little girl for a physician. Before the doctor arrived Mrs. Scheer was dead.

Mrs. Scheer was 34 years old and divorced. Little Myrtle said she did not remember seeing her father but a very few times in all her life, and did not know when her parents had been divorced. Her father, John Scheer, wrote her a letter from Minneapolis last Christmas, the child said.

"My mamma had a quarrel with Mr. Dalton, one of her roomers, this morning," said the little girl, weeping, "they woke me up quarreling. After Mr. Dalton went away I ran into the room where mamma was, and she drank the acid and fell down on the bed. They quarreled because Mr. Dalton didn't come home last night."

G. H. Dalton, who returned to the flat after the suicide, told the police he knew of no reason why Mrs. Scheer should want to destroy herself, unless it was because of something in a letter which came early in the morning. The police looked for the letter, but were unable to find it. Dalton is an electrician.

The acid with which Mrs. Scheer killed herself was purchased Sunday night at Wright's drug store, Jefferson and Olive street. The register there showed that she wanted to use the drug to poison rats, carbolic acid being sometimes poured onto bread as a rat poison.

Mrs. Scheer spent Sunday afternoon in a trip to Forest Park Highlands with a friend, Mrs. Clara Blaisdell. Mrs. Blaisdell said Monday that she seemed lively and happy during the afternoon.

The dead woman's father, B. Howe of 264 East Fourth street, Winona, Minn., was notified by telegraph and the body was taken to the morgue.

FIRE EXPLODES DYNAMITE HID BY AN OFFICER

Two Volunteer Firemen Killed and Spectators Injured at Luxemburg.

WARRANTS FOR SUSPECTS

Explosive Had Been Taken From Youths Arrested for Having It.

Warrants for six were issued Monday at Clayton as the result of an investigation being made by the St. Louis County authorities into the explosion of dynamite early Sunday morning during a fire in the rear of the store of Joseph Dohack, [illegible] Ferry road, in the village of Luxemburg, in which two men were killed and eight injured. Four are prisoners, August and Fred Wolff, Robert Hartman and August Schira. Two names were not given out.

It is believed that the fire in the wash-house back of the Dohack store was of incendiary origin because of the numerous blazes in that vicinity recently, and the authorities are endeavoring to ascertain exactly how it started. The Luxemberg volunteer department, under Chief John Ropitsch, had just got the fire under control when the explosion took place.

Deputy Constable Dan Finnegan, in whose possession the explosive was found through an arrest, hid the dynamite in the wash-house last Friday, covering it over with a heavy iron kettle. The sticks, 36 of them, were 12 inches long and one and one-half inches in diameter. There were also 72 wired caps for exploding dynamite. The deputy had had the dynamite two weeks, following the arrest of August and Fred Wolf and Robert Hartman, three young men in possession. He thought, he said, he was putting the explosive in a safe place. The three young men were arrested again Sunday by Sheriff Harper after the death of the two explosion victims.

Warrants were issued by Justice Campbell at Clayton Monday charging the three and also August Schira and two others not yet under arrest with arson, as a result of the explosion and fire. Deputy Constable Finnegan is swearing for the two youths not named. The issue of warrants by Justice Campbell was somewhat unusual. Ordinarily warrants are not issued until informations are filed. In this case the warrants were issued without waiting for the preliminary.

Joe Hunt and Deputy Finnegan are said to have warned the fire-fighters that there was dynamite in the wash-house just before the explosion. Hunt was told that it was there and that the firemen had better be careful as he was running down the road to the fire. He called out a warning as he neared the blaze that was almost under control. Finnegan ran up from the opposite direction, calling out the same warning. Both were too late. The explosion followed directly on the heels of their cries to the crowd.

During the panic that followed the explosion the fire gained renewed headway and consumed several frame sheds and houses adjoining the wash-house where the dynamite was stored.

Victims of Explosion.

Albert Zimmerman, widower of only a few weeks and father of nine children, most of whom are not old enough to realize the double tragedy that has just come into their lives, lived only ten minutes after the explosion. In the forefront of the volunteer firefighters who had just got the fire, as they thought, under control, Zimmerman was the first to fall. A flying splinter of iron or wood pierced his breast.

John Becker, a young man whose relatives are thought to live near Grand and Itasca street and who had been attending a dance in the neighborhood early in the night, is in the City Hospital from internal injuries.

Eight other firefighters, most of them members of the Luxemburg volunteer department, were injured. Frank Praschak, a shoemaker, whose shop is across the street from the wash-house explosion, was the most seriously injured. It was at first reported that he had died in the ambulance that took him to the Alexian Brothers' Hospital. It was said at the hospital Monday morning that he had rested fairly well during the night and might recover. He lost one eye and will probably lose the other.

The dead:

Albert Zimmerman, 41, 225 Adalia avenue.

John Becker, about 25, supposed to live near Grand avenue and Itasca street.

The injured:

Joe Hunt, laborer, badly bruised and probable internal injuries; taken to City Hospital.

Henry Funke, 23, 8107 South Grand avenue, left leg broken, body bruised; taken to City Hospital.

Christian Buehler, 57, 125 Lemay Ferry road, internal injuries; taken home.

Louis Heiberger, 710 Padmen avenue, scalp wound.

Henry Stroeher, 220 Pearl avenue, left leg bruised and cut.

Henry Finenning, 219 Military road, internal injuries.

Think Firebugs at Work.

A dance was in progress in the hall above the Dohack store during Sunday night. No one has been found who saw any person about the wash-house where the fire started. It was first thought probable that a lighted cigar or cigarette had been thrown out of a window from the hall where the dancers were, but the number of fires in Luxemburg recently have led the authorities to believe that the blaze was the work of a firebug.

There were remarkable escapes. Chief John Robitsch stood beside Albert Zimmerman when a shower of debris buried Zimmerman as it caused his death. Jacob Gehl had a narrower escape when a piece of debris tore through his coat and was only kept from striking his breast by a suspender buckle.

Coroner Rolla Bruce examined Zimmerman's body Sunday at the Zimmerman home, and while the little children played about the yard, the undertaker came to hang out the sign that was meaningless to them.

The inquests over the body of Zimmerman and Becker will be held in Luxemburg next Saturday.

At the City Hospital Monday morning it was said that an operation would have to be performed on Joe Hunt

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS

Bond Issue Adds to Amount Usually Handled by Council and House.

The Municipal Assembly will pass upon, directly or indirectly, during the life of the present body, public moneys aggregating over $28,000,000, which, the Comptroller tells a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday, is 30 per cent more than any Assembly has handled in the history of the incorporated city.

Mr. Player, itemizing this vast expenditure, figures for interest on public debt for the payment of interest on outstanding indebtedness, for sinking fund purposes, including the World's Fair bonds and the bonds to be issued for public buildings and public improvements, approximately, $2,580,000 during the current year and $3,200,000 the second year, a total of $5,780,000.

For municipal purposes, he estimates the amount to be handled by the Municipal Assembly at $8,200,0090 this year and for the second year $8,600,000, making a total of $16,800,000. Under the head of water works he gives the amount to be handled for the first year as $1,430,000 and for the second year $1,800,000, making a total of $3,230,000. The harbor fund, which will also come under the jurisdiction of the Municipal Assembly, will be for the first year $90,000 and for the second year $75,000, making a total of $135,000. The grand total of these three divisions of public expenditure is $8,165,000.

The Big Bond Issue.

The Comptroller says that under the head of new public buildings and public improvements, in all probability, at least $5,000,000 of bonds authorized to be issued for this work, which includes establishment of park, boulevards, bridges and viaducts, will be placed on the market and sold. "It is impossible," says Mr. Player, "to estimate just how much of the amount realized from the sale of bonds will be utilized. That depends altogether upon the rapidity with which the Board of Public Improvements and the Municipal Assembly prepare and pass ordinances authorizing the institution and completion of the work."

The entire amount of $8,000,000 will, however, be at the disposal of the Municipal Assembly and therefore it belongs to the total of $28,000,000 which is available in various forms for the consideration and utilization by the present legislative branch of the city government. This total amount does not take into consideration any new legislation which the Assembly may pass and the passage of which might involve further expenditures by the city. Items under this head, for instance, might include any expense to which the city would be placed in the event that abolition of grade crossings should be borne partly by the municipality and the railway interests.

The rapidity with which legislation may be passed by the present Assembly, is a matter of concern. Already the number of new bills introduced into the City Council has nearly reached 50. New House bills have almost reached 40. Consideration of these measures will occupy the time of the bodies confronted by the millions in money which the Comptroller says must come to the attention of the city's lawmaking bodies.

OBEYS LAW TOO SOON.

Fifteen-Mile Speeder Has to Submit to Arrest.

Ignorantia legis neminem excusat, which means that the new automobile law not yet in force in St. Louis County, or something like that, is what Justice of the Peace Campbell said to Harry H. Zimmermann of Hotel Beers when Mr. Zimmermann said ... thought the new law was in force. With his chauffeur, Peter Suengross, ... r. Zimmermann was arrested on the Clayton road, near Clayton, by deputy sheriffs. He admitted that he was going about 25 miles an hour, but he said he thought that the law permitted that rate of speed. Justice Campbell informed him that the new law was not in force, and fixed the chauffeur's bond at $25.

S. N. Judson was arrested on the Clayton road near the Country Club. He was released on bond without having made any particular plea, and his hearing will be held Tuesday before Justice Steele.

Alle Reyburn Jr. of 4529 Lindell boulevard escaped injury Sunday when his automobile collided with an Olive street car at Whittier street. The machine was damaged to the extent of $100.

Resists, Slain by Marshal.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Mo., April 29.—In a battle yesterday afternoon between Emmet Dankers and City Marshal Al Walk, Dankers was killed and several bullets penetrated the clothing of Walk. The Marshal had been telephoned to come to the Dankers' residence, as the latter was raising a disturbance. When Walk arrived and attempted to gain admittance to the house Dankers opened fire, four bullets cutting through the Marshal's clothing, but not injuring him. The latter then fired once, shooting Dankers through the heart. The dead man was 27 years old and leaves a wife and four children.

Man Collapsed on Street.

W. Crider, an oil refiner of Marietta, O., collapsed at Eighteenth and Market streets early Monday and was taken unconscious to the City Hospital. His skull, it is feared by physicians there, was fractured by the fall, which they attribute to epilepsy. Crider is stopping at the Excelsior Hotel opposite the Union Station. The chances favor his recovery.

Cleanliness and Disinfection

Absolute cleanliness cannot be obtained by simply using soap and water. Be clean right, you must purify the soap and water do not do this. Get a Disinfectant that mixes with water, and is nonpoisonous, put a little of it into your bucket, scrub and wash with it, use it from cellar to garret, then you will have a pure, clean home, and a top clean one. GIRL BEATEN AND LOCKED IN VAULT AND MAN ACCUSED BY THE POLICE

RELATIVE FOUND BY SOCIETY ITEM

Paragraph in the Post-Dispatch Brings Uncle and Nephew Together.

TALKED OVER TELEPHONE

Former Circus Man Meets Man He Had Not Seen for Thirty Years.

Daniel A. Buell of New York is the guest of St. Louis friends this week. Mr. Buell may possibly decide to remain in St. Louis permanently.

—From the Post-Dispatch society column, Monday, April 22.

This four-line item has been the means of bringing together the subject of that paragraph and his uncle, Clarence Buell of Louisiana, Mo., after a separation of more than thirty years.

Both formerly lived at Zanesville, O. Clarence Buell left Zanesville when Dan Buell was wearing dresses. Clarence went to the Southwest and engaged in the diverting occupation of managing a circus. He made money and invested it judiciously. For some years past he has lived with his wife in ease and plenty in a comfortable home in Louisiana, enjoying the good things of life and reading the Post-Dispatch regularly.

Dan's father, R. B. Buell, died several years ago and the young man went to New York and prospered in the brokerage business. A few weeks ago he came to St. Louis to visit friends he met in New York.

Learning that Miss Lucy Hosmer Stoughton, whose girlhood home was in Zanesville, and with whom he went to dancing school there, was society editor of the Post-Dispatch, he called on her at the Post-Dispatch office.

Seeking His Relative.

Miss Stoughton did not recognize in the portly, prosperous-looking broker the boy she had known at Zanesville. But she remembered him very well when he mentioned his name and, after a pleasant chat, he departed and Miss Stoughton printer the brief item concerning him.

Monday morning a tall, gray-haired, pleasant-looking man called at the Post-Dispatch office and asked for the "editor." He explained that he had read the item about Dan Buell and that he had a nephew of that name he hadn't seen for more than 30 years. He was directed to know where this Dan Buell was.

Miss Stoughton gave the visitor—he was Mr. Buell of Louisiana—the address Dan Buell had left with her—the West End Hotel. Using the society editor's telephone, the elderly Pike County man eagerly called up the hotel and in a few minutes Dan Buell was at the other end.

"That you, Dan?" fairly shouted Clarence Buell in his delight.

"Yes, sir," remarked the man at the other end. "This is Dan Buell. With whom have I the pleasure of conversing?"

"Why, this is your uncle, boy, Clarence Buell," exclaimed the Pike County man, whose voice could be heard ringing above the clatter of typewriters and the clicking of telegraph instruments. "I haven't seen you since you wore dresses. But I'm comin' out to see you right away."

Mr. and Mrs. Buell are the guests of Judge David P. Dyer of the Federal Court at the Dyer residence, 3511 Delmar boulevard.

LEWIS SUIT DISMISSED.

Hadley Must File New University City Proceeding.

The Supreme Court at Jefferson City, Monday, sustained the demurrer filed by attorneys of E. G. Lewis in the proceedings instituted by Attorney-General Hadley to dissolve the municipal corporation known as University City, west of Delmar Garden.

The court refused to sustain the suit, a dispatch states, on the ground that the University City corporation was not joined as a defendant with Lewis. At the same time the court authorized the Attorney-General to file an amended petition. This, Mr. Hadley says, will be done at once.

Death of F. M. Fuqua.

F. M. Fuqua of 5025 Nottingham avenue died of hemorrhage of the brain, resulting from a stroke of paralysis, at 5 a. m. Monday.

Mr. Fuqua was a native of Ohio, but at an early age came West, locating at St. Joseph, Mo., where he remained until 12 years ago, when he came to St. Louis. Being in frail health, he has not been in active business for 15 years.

A wife and three sons, Thomas B., [illegible] R. and Arthur, survive him. The body will be taken to St. Joseph for burial.

Automobilists Fined.

Four automobile drivers pleaded guilty of exceeding the speed limit in the City Hall Police Court Monday and were fined $10 and costs each. They were: J. C. Parker Jr. of 5070 Cabanne avenue, Charles F. Lorenz of 4123A Finney avenue, L. M. Rumsey Jr. of 4578 Westminster place and Fred S. Hill of the Monticello Hotel. Parker and Lorenz were arrested Saturday on the grand drive in Forest Park. Rumsey was charged with scorching on Lindell boulevard, between Boyle and Euclid avenues. Hill was arrested Sunday for speeding on Waterman avenue, between Union boulevard and De Baliviere avenue.

INFECTION AND CONTAGION

HOUSEHOLDERS CAUTIONED.

Disinfect Freely this Spring.

Infectious and contagious diseases are prevalent. The use of a reliable disinfectant protects the household. The last thing at night pour into the traps of the closets, wash-basins, sinks, etc., just a little Platt's Chlorides. Dusty or damp corners and cracks—nooks behind plumbing and all spots that can't be reached by the scrubbing brush, should be freely sprinkled with a mixture of one (1) part Platt's Chlorides and ten (10) parts of water. This dilution costs less than 5 cents a quart. Do not neglect a liberal sprinkling of the cellar. To remove objectionable odors where sprinkling is inadvisable, keep a cloth or sponge moistened with the dilution mentioned. A little extra care just now may prevent much sickness and expense. Platt's Chlorides is an odorless, colorless liquid which instantly destroys foul odors and disease-breeding matter. It is sold by druggists everywhere in full quart bottles, and is prepared only by Henry B. Platt.

PARADE IN STORM SOMETHING FIERCE

This Applies to Animals, Which Had Brainstorms During Shower.

In the midnight darkness of a spring rainstorm, many wild animals, frightened by occasional peals of thunder and made ferocious by the greenish yellow cast of the sky passed through the downtown streets of St. Louis Monday.

Men, women and children, sheltered under umbrellas and awnings, looked on without a thought of danger threaten them.

A storm is the bugaboo of the circus. When the weather is clear, the fiercest animals in the menagerie will be good so long as their meals are served to them regularly.

A roll of thunder or a flash of lightning is the danger signal. Often in the history of circuses storms have caused wild beasts to break from their cages and go forth, seeking whom they might devour.

That is why the Ringling parade was awarded a "stupendous spectacle," but inwardly a "train storm."

Every man in the procession was ready at an instant's notice to jump from his post of purely decorative duty and engage in conflict with the beasts.

Extra Caution Ordered.

Before the parade started from the circus grounds, at Handlan's Park, there was a serious debate as to whether it would be safe to risk a march through the streets. Just before the hour set for the parade the sun came from behind a cloud, and Al Ringling ordered that the parade proceed.

The steam piano, bringing up the rear of the line, had scarcely left the grounds when a big green cloud came up from the southwest. It was too late to call off the parade, but Mr. Ringling dispatched messengers to tell the custodians of the wild animals to use extra caution to prevent an outbreak.

Ten minutes after the parade started, the first clap of thunder came.

Its effect on the tigers and the elephants was instantaneous. The big striped cats were greatly excited. They snarled at the people in the streets, and when a second clap came they jumped at the bars and bit them in an effort to gain their liberty.

The effect of the storm on the elephants was equally apparent, but entirely different. The big pachyderms stopped in their tracks and refused to move. They swung their trunks from side to side and some of them trumpeted. Terror seemed to have seized them and they did not show any signs of anger at the crowd which watched their passage through the streets.

The camels went through the parade with stolid indifference to the darkness and the rain.

The hyenas abandoned their usual custom of walking from side to side in their cages, and took a nap.

Incidentally the parade in the rain showed that the scarcest thing about a circus is an umbrella. The "queen of the arena" carried one, and five Japanese fans kept the rain off the five most valued members of one of the bands.

There was not enough light to make the parade a "glittering pageant," but that was a big free show.

LOCKED IN BIG SAFE, DYING GIRL ACCUSED PORTER

Evansville Police Seek Guy Prescott, Charged With Brutal Assault.

VICTIM LIVED FIVE WEEKS

She Was Beaten Insensible and Cast Into Vault, Rifled of $210.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EVASNVILLE, Ind., April 29.—The local police have sent out pictures of Guy Prescott, wanted in connection with the murder of Miss Josie Gray of this city. Prescott was seen in Los Angeles, Cal., on April 3 by a former citizen of Evansville, but nothing has been heard from him since.

Miss Gray was bookkeeper for a furniture store in this city. Six weeks ago last Saturday night she worked later than usual, and some time before midnight she was assaulted, beaten into insensibility, and locked in the big vault. The vault was robbed of about $210.

It is known that Prescott, who was a porter at the store, was in the store as late as 11 o'clock on the night of the assault. He stated to the police that he was relieved at the store at 9 o'clock, that he returned to get his wheel, but for some reason failed to get it. He left home about noon on the day following the assault and has not since been seen in this city.

Miss Gray, who was removed to a local hospital, lingered nearly five weeks, when she died. She was semi-conscious at times and her aged parents who were at the hospital most of the time during her illness, say she talked of "Guy" a great deal, and at one time when asked what "Guy" did, she said: "He said, 'give me that.'"

Prescott had been employed as porter at the store for several years and had the confidence of his employers. Since his disappearance his little child has died and his wife is almost prostrated.

The county and city each has offered $200 for the arrest and conviction of Prescott and a local newspaper has raised nearly $150 by popular subscription as a reward to be paid to the officer arresting Prescott. Prescott's father is one of the best known men of Evansville and bears a splendid reputation. Miss Gray was about 35 years old and the only daughter of a retired Methodist minister of this city, who moved here several years ago from Elberfeld, Ind. Miss Gray was prominent in church and Sunday School work.

LIVES NEAR AERO CLUB, GETS FEVER

Mrs. J. Whitworth Buck Says She Is Anxious to Make a Balloon Ascension.

Mrs. J. Whitworth Buck of 4945 King's highway boulevard is the first St. Louis woman who has expressed a desire to become an aeronaut. Mrs. Buck's home adjoins the property selected as the site for the clubhouse of the St. Louis Aero Club and this circumstance has increased her interest in aerial navigation.

Mrs. Buck said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday:

"I would like to go up in a balloon. I would apply for admission to the Aero Club, but I fear the publicity. My grandfather was a balloonist and I would like very much to make an ascension.

"Only the fear of publicity holds me back. If I ever do ascend I will go out in the prairie country somewhere and no one will know about it until I alight."

ALL ROOSEVELT, HE SAYS.

Stevenson Declares He Could Easily Get Third Term.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, Colo., April 29.—A. M. Stevenson, National Republican Committeeman for Colorado, who has just returned from a tour of the country, winding up at Washington, and during which he consulted Republican leaders wherever he found them, says:

"It's all Roosevelt, if he wants a third term he can get it, without straining himself, it seems to me; but whether he wants another term or would accept the nomination is another question. If he should be a candidate the national convention could be swept by a messenger boy to cast the ballot. If he be there it will be one of the most memorable conventions ever held by the party."

A RELIABLE SPRING MEDICINE

At this season of the year there is hardly a man, woman or child in St. Louis who does not need a medicine to purify and enrich the blood, to induce an appetite, to promote digestion and create strength, and it is safe to say that nothing has ever been sold equal to Vinol for this purpose.

This new way of administering the medicinal properties of cod liver oil has wrought a wonderful change in the field of medicine. There is no need to take greasy cod liver oil, emulsions or drugs to purify and enrich the blood and create health and strength, for we guarantee that pure, simple and delicious cod liver and iron preparation, Vinol, will do it, or your money will be returned.

Mrs. Rose Lavigne, of Burlington, Vt., writes: "Vinol is the best spring medicine I have ever used; it creates an appetite, purifies the blood and takes away all feeling of lassitude."

St. Louis people should try Vinol this spring on our guarantee to return money if they are not benefited. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co.

NOTE—While we are sole agents for Vinol in St. Louis, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

BURGLAR SMASHED DOOR AND ESCAPED

Lieut. Nolte Thought He Had Thief Trapped in Store at Night.

NEIGHBOR GAVE ALARM

Entrance Had Been Gained by Removing Bars and Breaking Window.

A burglar in the hand is worth two bottled up.

Set a thief to catch a thief; the police can take the census.

Safety lies in the middle course—but escape may lie any old way.

Some are born burglars, some catch burglars, and some let burglars get away.

—Revised Aphorisms from the Notebook of Police Lieut. Nolte.

Lieut. Nolte and Patrolman White of the Deer street station are wondering how it happened. They are certain there was a burglar at 11 p. m. Sunday in the West End Leader, a dry goods store at 4507 Easton avenue, half a block from the station. They were sure they had the building surrounded and all means of exit guarded. But their quarry escaped by the simple expedient of smashing out a front door.

A. J. Christman of 4513 Easton avenue, next door to the store on the west side, heard glass shattered Sunday night and looked out of his second-story window. A discarded signboard in the alleyway between the two buildings had been placed beneath a rear side window, which is eight feet from the ground, seven of the iron bars in the window had been pulled out, a pane of glass had been broken, and Christman viewed the vanishing perspective of a man climbing through the window into the store.

Lieut. Nolte is in command of the Deer street station at night. Christman's excited report that a man was in the store aroused all the Lieutenant's police enthusiasm. It would be a great catch—absolute evidence in court, perhaps commendation from headquar—

"I'll go along myself," said Lieut. Nolte. "Come on, White, we'll bag this fellow."

Under Nolte's instruction White stood beneath the broken window. Nolte placed himself on guard at the front of the building, drawn revolver in hand. The east side of the building is an unbroken wall, and the rear was guarded by White as well as the west side. It looked bad for the burglar.

Saw Burglar in the Store.

Patrolman White grew impatient. He climbed stealthily upon the discarded sign board and thrust his head and shoulders through the broken window. In the gloom within he saw a figue advancing to him.

"Come on! come on! I've got him!" Patrolman White shouted excitedly, covereing the burglar with his revolver. But the policeman reckoned without his host. Lieut. Nolte went around the corner at top speed. The burglar went toward the front of the store at top speed. He took the revolving top from a stool in front of a counter and with it smashed out the plate glass pane in the west door on Easton avenue. He demolished the entire pane and stepped through easily.

Nolte and White heard the crash of glass and turned about face in time to reach the Easton avenue end of the alley as the burglar sped east. Nolte was in front and set out in hot pursuit.

The fugitive dodged north on Taylor avenue, Nolte, pursuing, rounded the corner with the speed of a Lajole at third when he expected to score on his hit. As he did so he leveled his revolver and fired. A block further on he fired again. The burglar's speed only increased. A moment later he dashed into an alley, and when Nolte got there no one was in sight.

When Nolte and White had made their disconsolate way back to the station, Nolte made a report of the facts, in the lower left-hand corner of which he wrote as an afterthought: "No description—no clew."

"MASSAGE PARLOR" RAIDED

Three Arrests Made of Women in Place.

Essie Douglas, Ada Reeves and Lottie Wright, arrested Sunday by Sergt. John Kavanaugh of the Carr Street Station and Special Officers Guibor and Salyers, working under the direction of the Missouri Anti-Saloon League, were arraigned in the Dayton Street Police Court Monday, the first-named on charges of conducting an improper house and selling liquor without a license and the other two on charges of being inmates of the place.

The women were taken into custody in a raid by the officers on a so-called bath and massage parlor at 1723 Washington avenue. The policemen say that while they were in the place several well-dressed men were visitors. The policemen say they bought three bottles of beer from Essie Douglas, the cost being $3 each. This fee, the policemen say, was exasted as soon as they entered the door. They were informed their report says that they might have a bath, but they compromised and took beer. The women deny the charges.

PAY $200 FOR TIN CANS.

Trenton, Mo., Clean City Club Starts Alley War.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TRENTON, Mo., April 29.—A novel enterprise for the promotion of sentiment for civic improvement was fostered by the Trenton Clean City Club, a local organization backed by clubwomen, here Saturday night. Partly to get rid of the rubbish that adorned alleys and streets and more to attract attention to the clean city movement, the club offers Trenton boys 25 cents a hundred for all old tin cans delivered to the committee on a certain day. The cans were received at the most prominent point of the town's business sections, and for hours the streets were jammed with boys, cans and spectators. One hundred and thirty boys brought in more than 78,000 cans and received nearly $200 in payment.

The club expects the tin can day to be the pioneer event of a general movement in other cities. Clubs in several other towns have already shown a disposition to try the scheme, which was an unqualified success.

Burglar Gets Her $1600.

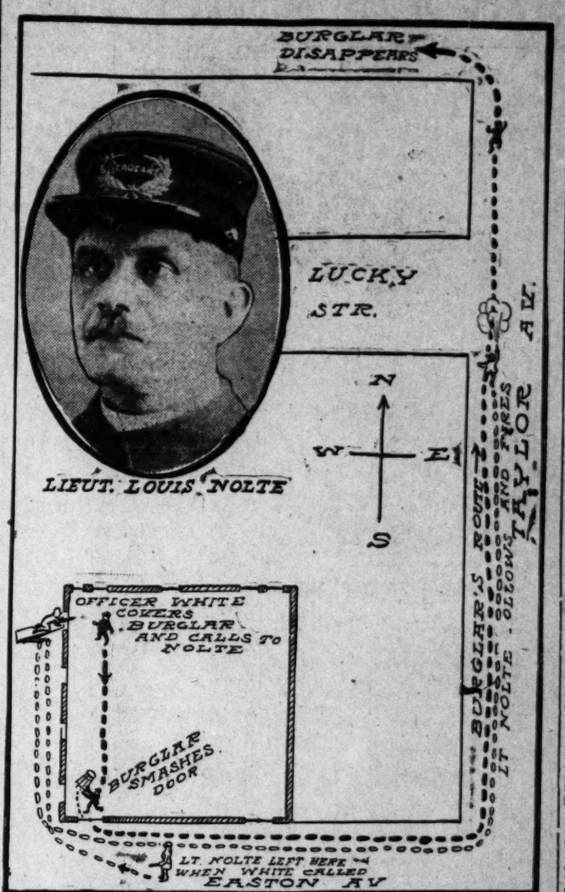

NEW YORK, April 29.—A burglar entered the bedroom of Mrs. John Fraser in Wakefield, Borough of the Bronx, early today and took a pocketbook containing $1600 from under her pillow. Mrs. Fraser awoke just in time to see the man climbing through a window to a ladder which he had placed against the side of the house to gain an entrance.

Mrs. Fraser lives alone in a little farm house far from any neighbor, and by the time the alarm had been spread the thief had disappeared. The money was to have been placed in a bank today.

DOUBLE WEDDING ON SUNDAY TRIP

Excursion to Illinois State Capital Includes Marriage of Two Couples.

A Sunday trip to the State capital from East St. Louis included a double marriage which surprised the relatives of the two couples, Mark O. Wall of 617 Veronia avenue, East St. Louis, wedding Miss Katherine Farmer of 601 Fekete place, and Harry Axley of St. Louis marrying Miss Winnifred Clendennin of 1417 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis.

Wall is a reporter for the Daily Live Stock Reporter. He met Miss Farmer, a bookkeeper, on his daily rounds. Several weeks ago they became engaged.

Miss Farmer was a chum of Miss Clendennin, to whom she confided her secret. The latter was also engaged to be married. They decided that a double elopement would be interesting.

Arrangements at Springfield were made by Bradley P. Fowlkes of the State Insurance Department. The double ceremony was performed at his home by Rev. Thomas A. Logan of the First Presbyterian Church.

MINERS STILL IMPRISONED.

Signals Prove That at Least One Is Alive.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 29.—The seven men imprisoned by water in Mine No. 38 of the Berwind-White Co. have not yet been reached, although the rescuers have been working night and day since Friday afternoon. It is believed that the men cannot be reached before tonight at the earliest. The work of pumping the water out proceeds slowly. Tapping on the air pipes proves that at least one is still alive. The mine mouth is besieged constantly by relatives of the miners, the women and children weeping pitifully.

For their encouragement it is pointed out that the men had opportunity to reach high ground when the rush of water came, and that the air in the heading will not be exhausted for a long time. By this time, however, the men must be suffering from hunger. Eight pumps are at work now, and the flow of water from the mine makes a continuous torrent.

FOOD ECONOMY.

How to Save Money and Get Strong.

Nature always economizes. There is no waste in nature except as man brings it about.

In keeping up life and energy, Nature requires just so much of the simple elements that go to make up proper food—man often causes waste of energy by over eating.

A Minn. man cut down on his food schedule and was able to get rid of a lot of ills and be comfortable. He writes:

"For 25 years I suffered from chronic rheumatism and many other serious ills, including indigestion, headaches and sluggishness of mind and body, which were very trying.

"I was advised by a doctor, who is an ardent advocate of Grape-Nuts, that my trouble lay in too much food—too much meat—eaten too fast without proper mastication. He advised me to try Grape-Nuts.

"An experiment of only a few days convinced me that he was right.

"I made the change and have found Grape-Nuts not only valuable as a food, but extremely helpful to perfect digestion by thorough chewing.

"Two eggs and a handful of Grape-Nuts with a little cream, thoroughly chewed, for breakfast now take the place of four eggs, some bacon or ham and a lot of pancakes or fried potatoes.

"With a corresponding change in my other two meals, I find myself, for the first time in 25 years, entirely free from rheumatism, indigestion and medical attendance. And my wife declares I am more agreeable and intelligent than ever!" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

NEGRO INDICTED BY WHITE JURY

Absence of Colored Man From Panel Reason for Quashing Indictment.

NOVEL POINT IS RAISED

Accused Slayer Argues That His Rights Have Been Disregarded.

Because the grand jury that indicted Anderson Jackson, a negro, for murder in the first degree, was composed entirely of white men, Jackson is asking Judge Muench of the Criminal Division of the Circuit Court to quash the indictment.

This plea was made Monday when Jackson's case was called for trial. It is the contention of his attorney, William E. Fish, that it required the presence of a negro on the grand jury to make the indictment valid. Arguments on this point will be heard Wednesday, to which time the case has been continued.

Attorney Fish, in his motion to quash the indictment, gave the following reasons:

"The defendant states that he is a negro, that the grand jury that returned the indictment charging him with murder in the first degree was composed exclusively of white men, and there was not a negro on said grand jury. Defendant states that he has been denied his constitutional rights under Section 22 of Article 2 of the bill of rights of the State of Missouri, and under the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States."

Says Decisions Support Him.

"I am supported on the point I have raised by decisions in Texas and Mississippi," said Attorney Fish. "The Texas case was carried to the United States Supreme Court, and the Mississippi case reached the State Supreme Court."

Assistant Circuit Attorney Newton said he had no fear of the motion. "There is no Missouri case to support it," he remarked.

Jackson is charged with the murder of Joe Evans on Dec. 25. Both were attending a fish-fry at the home of George Wright, 3718 Rutger street. Wright and his wife became engaged in a quarrel, and their visitors interfered with the result that hard feeling sprang up between Evans and Jackson. Evans went out and returned 15 minutes later with a revolver. Jackson carries a weapon all the time, and shot Evans immediately upon his return.

Fell to Death Over Banister.

An inquest into the death of Milton Karp, 4 years old, who fell over a banister at his home, 1010 Carr street, Saturday, was held Monday. The boy's skull was fractured and he died Sunday at the Jewish Hospital. The body was taken to the Morgue.

Dentist Killed by Car.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Dr. Roy L. Pruitt, a dentist who is believed to have come here from Aurora, Ill., was killed by a street car in Jersey City early today. The motorman said Pruitt was lying on the track and he did not see the body until the car was upon it. Several letters postmarked "Aurora, Ill." were found in the dead man's pockets. One of the letters was signed "Ma," and the others "Your loving wife, Jennie."

Perfect Womanhood

The greatest menace to woman's permanent happiness in life is the suffering that comes from some derangement of the organs.

Many thousands of women have realized this too late to save their health, barely in time to save their lives.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study.

If a woman finds that her energies are flagging, that she gets easily tired, dark shadows appear under her eyes, she has backache, headache, nervousness, or the "blues," she should start at once to build up her system by a tonic with specific powers, such as the great woman's remedy for woman's ills, made only of roots and herbs.

It cures Female Complaints, such as Weak Back, and all Organic Disorders, and is invaluable for kindred diseases. It dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage. Subdues Faintness, Nervous Prostration, Exhaustion, and strengthens and tones the Stomach. Cures Headache, General Debility, Indigestion, and invigorates the whole female system. It is an excellent remedy for derangements of the Kidneys in either sex.

The Week's New Plays.

ROBERT VON SKINSKI, a St. Louisan born and a graduate of Washington University, comes back to his native town a terrible scoundrel—it makes one marvel how St. Louis and Washington University could possibly sponsor such a chap. This is because he is required to play the villain role in "Fabio Romani," which was presented for the first time at popular prices by Miss May Hosmer and her company at the Imperial last night.

And the villain in "Fabio Romani" is a villain indeed—one of the most malevolent creations of Marie Corelli's perfervid imagination. It is from her story, "The Vendetta," that "Fabio Romani" has been dramatized, and she wrote the part of Guido Ferrari, the villain, in the blackest ink ever sold across a stationer's counter. He is the false friend of the fine Neapolitan nobleman, Fabio Romani, the lover of Fabio's wife, and he causes Fabio to be buried alive in the great tomb of the Romanis in order that he may marry the consequent widow. But there isn't any consequent widow, for the reason that Fabio Romani comes to life again, escapes from the tomb, and devotes himsef to a scheme of vengeance upon his false friend and falser wife, employing a tomb-found fortune to further his ends, just as much like "Monte Cristo" with Neapolitan trimmings as it's possible for a Marie Corelli hero to be like an Alexander Dumas hero and for George A. Dayton, who plays Fabio, to resemble James O'Neil.

All in all, it's a very thrilling melodrama, and, by the time Guido, the villain, is slain in a desperate rapier-duel by Fabio in the next to the last act, young Von Skinski has made quite a favorable artistic impression upon the people of his home town. He's a slender, good-looking young chap, with effectively clear-cut features, a good stage presence, much earnestness of temperament, and, in something more magnetic than a villain's role, ought to distinguish himself as a player capable of winning the liking of his audiences to an unwonted degree.

The first act of "Fabio Romani" shows the Bay of Naples with Vesuvius smoking ominously in the background, and the last act shows Vesuvius in eruption and the false wife, Countess Nina Romani, dead at her husband's feet, but, until that final moment, Nina has been a thousandfold more volcanic than Vesuvius. She's a terror in the line of loving and deceiving—a hot-blooded, unmoral, treacherous tiger-cat of a Neapolitan noblewoman, and Miss May Hosmer plays the part with a strenuousness that makes folks sit up and take notice. It's played along wide-open melodramatic lines—indeed, it can't properly be played along any other lines—and Miss Hosmer makes no bones about working up its "thrills" to beat the band. In the tomb scene of the last act, where she is confronted and is about to be executed by her avenging husband, under the terror of which she goes suddenly mad, Miss Hosmer precipitates a gallery demonstration such as I haven't heard for many a long year. The story demands it, you know—and the star is tumultuously willing to meet the demand.

Mr. Dayton would be a better Fabio Romani if he was willing to sacrifice some of his good looks following his awful experience of being buried alive—a man who is so appalled that his hair turns white in a single night doesn't thereafter present a countenance as fresh and blooming as a peach. Besides, if Romani hadn't changed more in facial appearance than Mr. Dayton makes him change, he would have been recognized by his false wife and false friend right at the jump—and then there would have been no story. Also should the part be played in a sterner and more formidable spirit—as it is now, the title role is the weak spot of the production.

The supporting company is fairly capable.

RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.

"The Lion and the Mouse" at Olympic.

"The Lion and the Mouse" opened another week's engagement last evening at the Olympic—its third time here and its second this season with Gertrude Coghlan as star. There is no question of its merit nor of the capability of Miss Coghlan's company.

Miss Coghlan is so totally different in manner and presence from Margaret Illington, who was first seen here in the part of Shirley Rossmore, that comparison is difficult. Miss Coghland wins her ultimate triumph over "Ready-Money" Rider rather through the appeal of womanly qualities than through dominant will and mentality, as Illington's Shirley Rossmore did.

The part of "Ready-Money" Ryder was taken by Arthur Byron, who created it. The play as written has no subtlety to speak of, but Mr. Byron manages to infuse some into hise characterization of the richest man in the world, and his work is distinctly commendable. Jefferson Ryder, his son, is excellently portrayed by Malcolm Duncan. Joseph Kilgour as the Hon. Fitzroy Bagley—"English, blue blood, no money"—presses the part to the very verge of burlesque without overstepping that line, and does character work of an excellent quality. The remainder of the cast is capable.

"The Lion and the Mouse" makes a frank appeal to the sympathies of the crowd in causing the weak to triumph over the strong and giving the final victory to love. The play swings along with vigor and sparkle and leaves a pleasant taste in the mouth at its close.

"The County Chairman" at Grand.

"The County Chairman," from the pen of George Ade, and with Theodore Babcock in the title role, began a week's engagement at the Grand Opera House Sunday and two appreciative audiences welcomed the reurn of the play that has enjoyed such a long run throughout the country.

The company has seen some changes, but is capable and deserving. Babcock, in the role of Jim Hackler, the County Chairman, portrays a character that is manly and admirable. Comedy and pathos mingle with love and politics to make "The County Chairman" well worth while. At popular prices for the first time, the play should draw well, despite the warm weather.

Babcock is admirably supported by Thomas J. Grady, as Sassafras Livingston, the commending "coon;" Francis Yale, the chairman's junior law partner, who defeats Elias Rigby, played well by Claud Boyer, for State's Attorney; Charles A. Burke, as the "oldest inhabitant," and Loretta Babcock as "Chick" Elsey, the orphan girl. Grace Romine, as Lucy's mother and the wife of the defeated candidate, and Fannie Midgley as the milliner, help to make up a competent cast.

Sophie Brandt at Forest Park Highlands.

An entertaining vaudeville bill is found at Forest Park Highlands this week, where the first summery day of the garden season drew a large crowd of at least 25,000 people yesterday. Three good musical acts supply that part of a program which always goes well in a summer garden. The most delightful is that of Sophie Brandt. Miss Brandt demonstrated in the name part of "The Princess Chic" that she is a vocalist. Three very pleasing selections, two ballads which were expressly written for her debut in vaudeville, for this is what her appearance at the Highlands signifies, and her singing of "In der Heimath ist es schoen," a tribute to St. Louis, her native city, called for great applause on the part of two large audiences in the afternoon and at night.

A warm reception was given to the Delaur-Debrimont Trio, who have just returned from abroad better than ever in their vocal work. Rader Brothers and Sunbeams do a particularly pleasing juvenile act of singing and dancing, and Bobby North is excellent as a Hebrew delineator. Spadoni as a juggler is in a class by himself. The Polyscope makes a nice finish to this entertaining bill.

On the Pike is a curious flea circus of educated German and French fleas. It is claimed that no other nationality of fleas can be trained to draw automobiles, carriages, buggies and tiny vehicles, which look more like dainty jewelry than actual equipments for flea drivers and pushers. The flea circus at the Highlands draws a big patronage from the curious.

Opening of Eclipse Garden Season.

At Eclipse Garden the Stanley Stock Company opened the summer season yesterday afternoon to the largest business ever known there, hundreds being unable to secure even standing room. The opening bill was "Blue Grass," and was well received by all. Mr. Arthur Stanley as John Brand and Ella Allen as Mary were heartily welcomed by their many friends, and are deserving of praise for excellent work. They were supported by a good, well-balance company, while the scenic effects were fine. Specialties between acts by different members of the company were heartily applauded. Mr. Stanley expects to remain here throughout the summer season, producing such bills as are enjoyed by his following. There will be a change of program each week, beginning on Monday. The play for this week will be the great military drama, "For Love and Honor," with new specialties throughout.

A Washington University Villain and Fabio Romani's False Wife, as They Looked to a Post-Dispatch Cartoonist

BRIEF BIOGRAPHIES OF NOTABLE STARS OF THE WEEK

DAVID WARFIELD, now appearing as Herr von Barwig in "The Music Master" at Garrick.—Born in San Francisco, Nov. 28, 1866. Began stage career about 1890 and made big hit in vaudeville and with Weber & Fields as delineator of Yiddish peddler characters. Scored notable dramatic success in "The Auctioneer," five years ago, and this was followed by the hit of his career as Herr von Barwig in "The Music Master," which ran nearly three years in New York. Will be starred next season in a new comedy by David Belasco, in which he is to open Belasco's new Stuyvesant Theater next September. Married, in New Jersey, Oct. 5, 1899, Mary Gabrielle Bradt.

GERTRUDE COGHLAN, now appearing as Shirley Rossmore in "The Lion and the Mouse" at Olympic.—Born in England, daughter of Charles Coghlan. Made stage debut in England in title role of "Celia Price." First New York appearance as Juliet in one scene of "Romeo and Juliet," introduced into her father's play, "The Royal Box." Later played "Manuela" in support of Mrs. Patrick Campbell in "The Sorceress," and was starred in "Becky Sharp," "Vanity Fair," "Colinette," and "Alice of Old Vincennes." Will be starred next season under Henry B. Harris' management in a play which, left uncompleted by the late Charles Coghlan, has been completed by her husband, Augustus B. Pitou Jr.

A CRITICAL GUIDE TO WEEK'S LEADING PLAYS.

"The Lion and the Mouse" at Olympic.—Effective presentation of Klein's strong play by Arthur Byron, Gertrude Coghlan and a capable supporting company.

"The County Chairman" at Grand.—George Ade's play of American rural political life well presented, for the first time at popular prices, by Theodore Babcock in the title role, with an excellent company in cast.

"Fabio Romani" at Imperial.—Exciting Marie Corelli melodrama, fairly well played by May Hosmer and a competent company.

David Warfield at Garrick Tonight.

David Warfield begins a week's engagement in "The Music Master" at the Garrick this evening. He broke local records in a two weeks' engagement at the Garrick last December.

"The Convict's Daughter" at Havlin's.

Despite the fact that it is now in its fourth season, "The Convict's Daughter" drew two big audiences to Havlin's yesterday and seemed to be as popular as when first presented. It tells a thrilling story of a father's wrongs and a daughter's loyal devotion.

New Bill at Columbia.

The Twelve Navajo Girls are the topliners on the Columbia's new bill, opening this afternoon. Among other features are Eddie Girard and Jessie Gardner in "Dooley and the Diamond;" E. Frederick Hawley in his melodramatic success, "The Bandit;" Welch, Mealy and Montrose, comedy acrobats; the World's Comedy Four, in songs; the Labakans, an exhibition of dramatic art; Howell and Scott, comedians, and the new kinodrome pictures.

Jersey Lilies at Gayety.

The Jersey Lilies Extravaganza Company opened the week at the Gayety with a Sunday matinee performance.

Empire Burlesquers at Standard.

The Empire Burlesquers began a week's engagement at the Standard yesterday afternoon. With Roger Imhoff in the leading comedy role, the burlesques, "The Land of Sunshine" and "Casey's Athletic Club," opened and closed the bill.

McCoy Postpones Ascension.

J. C. McCoy of the Aero Club of America, after a visit to the office of the local weather forecaster Monday said to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"There is no possibility of my making my flight for the Lahm Cup Monday evening. I am told that the wind is now from the south and that it will remain in that quarter for at least 12 hours.

"The flight will not be made until the wind is from the west and the weather is clear."

No Purse for This Snatcher.

Mrs. Charlotte Bowers, 45 years old, of 3725 Finney avenue, routed a negro purse-snatcher Sunday night, according to her statement to the police. She said that a negro accosted her while she was walking on the west side of Spring avenue, between Finney and Cook avenues, and that she pummeled him with her umbrella.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

To aid in healing old sores, or ulcers, apply Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve to them while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" to purify and enrich the blood.

Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve is cleansing and pain relieving. It destroys the bad odors arising from suppurating, or running, sores and puts them in the best possible condition for healing.

The "All-Healing Salve" is a superior dressing for all open, running, or suppurating, Sores or Ulcers. For healing open wounds, cuts and scratches it is unsurpased.

If your medicine dealer does not have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock mail 50 cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive it by return post.

In treating all open sores, or ulcers, boils, carbuncles and other swellings, it is important that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery be taken persistently to purify the blood and thereby remove the cause of the trouble. It is in the blood that the great battle of health has to be fought. The ulcer and the sore are simply the scarlet flowers of disease, with roots running down into the blood. These roots must be eradicated or the disease will break out afresh. "Golden Medical Discovery" cleanses the blood of all foul and poisonous accumulations, pushes out the dead and waste matter, and thus purifies the entire life current. Disease in the flesh must die out when it is no longer fed by foul blood. "Golden Medical Discovery" effectively cures disease in the flesh by curing its cause in the blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid, or lazy, liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and its attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

Cures Women's Ailments.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe, one of the Editorial staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW, says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica), which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription:"

"A remedy which invariably acts as an invigoration * * * makes the normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "In Helonais we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root): Pain or aching in the back, associated with chronic diseases of the organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says:

"In all catarrhal conditions * * * and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. Easy to take as candy.

WIFE REMARRIED, HE PAYS ALIMONY

Turfman Asks Court to Vacate Order Making Him "Support Other's Wife."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 29.—At the time of L. V. Bell's marriage to the divorced wife of John E. Madden, the turfman, which was Bell's second venture in matrimony, friends of Bell maintained that he would not allow his wife to receive any support from Madden. Evidently they were wrong, as Mrs. Bell, through her attorney, Charles W. Baker of Cincinnati, has opposed all efforts of Madden and his attorneys to vacate the order of the courts of Ohio, which compels Madden to pay alimony of $250 a month.

Bell and his wife are living abroad, while Madden and his two boys live in this city, the boys going to school, while their father looks after his stable of thoroughbreds.

While in this country Bell was very prominent both as a broker in Wall street and on the turf. Glorifier, the recent winner of the Carter Handicap, was his at one time. Some men claim he still owns the horse, but this James McCormick denies. Bell also owned Hermis, whom he sold to E. R. Thomas for $60,000. Before retiring as a broker he sold his seat in the Stock Exchange for $80,000. In Wall street he was reported to be a millionaire.

His attack on W. S. Vosburg, the official handicapper of the Jockey Club track, for which Bell was fined $200 and reprimanded by the Jockey Club, was the cause, it is alleged, of his not entering the French and English turf as an owner, as he contemplated doing last fall.

Madden, through his counsel, Ex-Senator William Lindsay of Kentucky, will ask the court to vacate what he calls an "unjust demand to support another man's wife." The hearing will come up tomorrow in Cincinnati.

Banquet for Druggists.

A banquet will be given in connection with the seventh annual national pharmacopeal convention Thursday evening at the Southern Hotel. Retail and wholesale druggists from all parts of the country will attend. The hosts will be G. W. Donnell, Charles Gietner, Prof. James M. Good, H. O. A. Huogel, Dr. H. August Hunicke, F. V. Johnson, Edward Mallinckrodt, Theodore F. Meyers, Dr. John C. Morfit, Lorenz A. Seitz, C. P. Walbridge, Dr. O. W. Wall and Dr. H. M. Whelpley.

HOW HOLDS PURSE FOR WELFAREITES

They Will Lose Meal Ticket in Expelling Him, Supporter Declares.

Opponents of James Eads How in the People's Fund and Welfare Association have arranged a meeting for Tuesday night at 307 South Broadway, at which the founder of the organization will be formally expelled from its directorate and his successor elected.

At the same time How's friends in the Hobo Club, also formed by him, will meet in the same building and adopt resolutions indorsing him. Among those who will take a prominent part in the latter meetin gare Mrs. E. A. Kelley, Mrs. Cora Harvey and A. C. Stratton, who were also expelled from the People's Fund and Welfare Association. L. C. Fry, the new member of the association, who made the charges against How and the others, says he will not be a candidate for director.

How is in Indiana, and no word has been received from him by Attorney Harold Johnson, his legal adviser, as to what action he desires to take. The deposed founder and director is also treasurer of the association, and as such is in control of whatever funds it may have.

Representatives of both sides say they have no knowledge as to the financial standing of the association, and that the only one who has such knowledge is the treasurer.

Fry declares that the association is a solvent legal organization, and professes to believe that How will take no steps looking to its dissolution. Mrs. Kelley expressed the opinion that How would withhold financial assistance in the future, in which event, she said, the association would soon pass out of existence.

Shoe Merchants' Officers.

Seventy-seven members of the South Side Shoe Merchants' Association attended the first annual meeting, held Sunday afternoon at 3773 South Broadway. The following officers were elected. President, Fred Rau; vice-president, Joseph Venderloh; secretary, William Ruedlin; treasurer, Daniel Kurz; sergeant-at-arms, Edward Roth; Executive Board, Edmund Heintze, Joseph H. Weber and Theodore Christen.

BUCHTEL GOES TO COAST FOR A REST

Colorado Governor Is Ordered to California by His Physicians.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, Colo., April 29.—Exhausted by his strenuous labors during and since the legislative session, Gov. Buchtel, by order of his physician, has gone to California for a long rest, hoping to avert an attack of nervous prostration. A younger brother, who is a physician, accompanied him. The Governor, under Colorado laws, has 30 days after the adjournment of the Legislature in which to sign or veto bills passed. He has for four weeks been besieged night and day by advocates and opponents of the measures in his hands, and has continued to perform his duties as head of the University of Denver. The strain became too great and his physician ordered a rest.

Acting Governor E. R. Harper, after a conference with Congressman Bonynge, President Friedman and Secretary Arthur Williams of the Denver Chamber of Commerce, has issued an official call for the big public land convention to meet in this city June 18 to discuss and agree upon a general polity for the disposition of the public domain lying in the 14 Western States, to be urged upon the national Congress.

Replies recently sent out by the governors of these states with reference to the gathering have been received by the Chief Executive of Colorado. Not a one is there who does not indorse the government, and some of them are enthusiastic. All have fallen into line and declare that they will appoint delegations to come to this convention men who are prominent in politics, in commercial life, also in the various organizations whose purpose is the upbuilding of the Western state.

It is estimated that 1500 representative citizens from each of the 14 states will be here to attend the gathering and aid in mapping a course for the development of this vast domain.

Friend of the Aged Dies.

The funeral of Louis C. A. Koenig, 69 years old, who died at the Altenheim, 5408 South Broadway, SSunday, will be held there Tuesday afternoon. He was one of the members of the Merchants' Exchange. In 1902 Mr. Koenig retired from active business and took charge of the Altenheim as superintendent. He was a member of the Union Army in the Civil War. His widow survives him.

BECOMING A MOTHER

Is an ordeal which all women approach with indescribable fear, for nothing compares with the pain and horror of child-birth. The thought of the suffering and danger in store for her, robs the expectant mother of all pleasant anticipations of the coming event, and casts over her a shadow of gloom which cannot be shaken off. Thousands of women have found that the use of Mother's Friend during pregnancy robs confinement of all pain and danger, and insures safety to life of mother and child. This scientific liniment is a god-send to all women at the time of their most critical trial. Not only does Mother's Friend carry women safely through the perils of child-birth, but its use gently prepares the system for the coming event, prevents "morning sickness," and other discomforts of this period. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Book containing valuable information free.

TATE OFFERED $5000, HE SAYS, TO KEEP STILL

"Gentleman Burglar" Declares Peorians Were to Have Paid Him Saturday.

POLICEMEN ARE ACCUSED

They Stayed Away While School Safe Was Robbed, Prisoner Avers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 29.—Five thousand dollars was to have been the price of "Eddie" Tate's silence concerning the identity of persons behind the Peoria safe burglary. This money was to have been paid to Tate Saturday night, six or seven hours after he was arrested. The "gentleman burglar" had planned to go to Milwaukee so soon as he received the money, get his wife and flee to Canada; from there they were to have gone abroad.

The money, according to a confession made to Chief Shippey, was to have been furnished by a Peoria banker. This financier, according to Tate, who still is a prisoner at the Central Station, supplied the money for the professional cracksmen who blew open the school safe in Peoria, Jan. 6, and stole evidence implicating Newton C. Dougherty and $50,000 worth of bonds.

Citizens of Peoria who are interested in keeping Tate silent concerning details of the safe robbery are furnishing money to pay for a defense. Attorney Charles Erbstein had a conference with one of them last night. Tate passed the day in his cell in a cheerful manner. Apparently he was not distressed over the loss of the $5000 he was to have received for saying nothing and getting out of town.

"The police got me a little soon," said Tate. "But I am not worrying. I have good friends back of me. There's a banker in Peoria who is much interested in this case. There also are one or two attorneys who would prefer to have me keep my mouth shut. I was to have been paid $5000 Saturday night at the Saratoga Hotel for getting out of the country, and never coming back. That would enable me to lead an honest life. I believe I would have started a hat store somewhere.

Policemen Involved, He Says.

"Fifty thousand dollars in bonds, proceeds, in part, of the safe robbery, are hidden in a Chicago safety deposit vault; and Peoria authorities, such of them as are on the square, want to find these securities, so they can get the 5 per cent reward. I know where the bonds are and I know who put them there.

"Several police officers in Peoria are mixed up in the burglary and have asked me not to talk about the case. A certain detective on the force knows as much about the safe-blowing as anybody in town. Two policemen obligingly remained eight blocks away while the robbery was being pulled off."

State's Attorney Sholes of Peoria also expects to visit Chicago today and ask for Tate's release on habeas corpus. He and Chief of Police Wilson of that city say there is no doubt but that Tate was concerned in the burglary of the safe, and that he was positively identified as having been in the neighborhood the night before the burglary.

Hunters with keen appetite
Say "Squirrel" food products are just right.

FOUGHT OFF FOOTPAD.

Policemen Arrived Too Late to Make Capture.

Paul Burkhardt successfully fought off the attempt of a highwayman to rob him at 1 a. m. Monday.

As he was entering the Cabildo Hotel Fifteenth and Market streets, where he lives, he was attacked by a man, who sprang from behind the main entrance door. The robber tried to pinion Burkhardt's hands behind him, at the same time exclaiming: "I don't want to hurt you; it's your money I want."

After a struggle Burkhardt managed to free himself. His cries for help attracted Sergt. Matthews and Policemen Yoos and O'Keefe, but before their arrival the robber fled. Later the police arrested John Nesbitt, 23 years old, of Overland Park, but he was too drunk to make a statement. Burkhardt had $50 in his possession.

Girl, Out of Work, Takes Acid.

Unable to get work, Miss Nellie Hickey of 2110 Carr street, attempted suicide Sunday night by drinking carbolic acid. Miss Hickey is 24 years old and lives with her mother. She is in the City Hospital in a serious condition.

Almost 500 Styles of Women's White Waists In This 14th Semi-Annual Sale

NO doubt you have heard enough about this Waist Sale to enthuse you far more than we can by giving the details, and if you have seen some of the garments purchased by your friends you are deeply interested, because every Waist will serve to bring additional buyers.

This is one of the greatest Waist events in our history, and offers you opportunities for selection and saving without an equal. Imagine an array of 500 clever styles—each one possessing points of excellence that induces us to place it among the collection. Surely no one can wish for a wider range for choosing or better made garments than these. And the values are immeasurably great—$1.50, $2.00 and $2.50 Waists being offered at 98c, and $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00 Waists for $2.98.

(Third Floor.)

For $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00 Waists

A STRONG feature of this extraordinary Waist Sale is the exclusive styles. Nowhere else will you find these exceptionally clever models, and surely you will not be able to duplicate these values about town.

The materials used are the finest quality India lawns, French batistes, dotted Swisses, new crossbar lawns and pure handkerchief linen; also allover embroideries.

The trimming ideas vary considerably; some have front of allover embroidery, in beautiful raised cushion designs of English eyelet effects, with lace collar and cuffs; others are handsomely inserted with Val. lace, and finished with hemstitching and fine tucking; many are made entirely of allover embroidery, in English eyelet, blind effect and pretty floral designs; trimmed with Val. lace.

You will find practically no end of pretty models, with round, square or V-shape yoke of Val. lace on front and back, trimmed with real hand-embroidered medallions and lace galloons; many have allover hand-made lace yokes and cuffs, a combination of lace medallions and fagot stitching; some plain effects with front of rows of embroidery and lace between cluster of fine tucking.

There are several styles of pure handkerchief linen, with straight plaited front, also the new Marie Antoinette Waists, sides finished with narrow plaits and fluting, edged with Val. lace; many have lace collar and cuffs of Val. lace; others have plain tucked collars and cuffs.

The backs are all finished with cluster tucks, or tucks and Val. lace insertion; short or long sleeves; open front or open back; plenty of all sizes in every one of the styles from 32 to 44 bust measure; Waists that we pronounce exceptional values at $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00, at $2.98.

98 Cents

For $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50 Waists

IF it were possible for us to make every woman in St. Louis realize the magnitude of this offering, it is a foregone conclusion that our entire establishment would not be able to hold the crowds.

These Waists are on sale on the Third Floor on the Main Floor and in the Basement Salesrooms. There are more than 20,000 garments at this one price and a hundred models from which to choose. Every garment is such an exceptional value that your enthusiasm will be unbounded the moment you see them. You can choose from a complete line of sizes in every one of the 100 exceptionally clever and exclusive models, and every garment is thoroughly well made.

The materials are fine quality white lawns and French batistes; many open-front styles; long or short sleeves; most of them open back with short sleeves; collars and cuffs finished with tucks and edged with lace; have either cluster tucked or full tucked back; some have fronts of allover blind or English eyelet embroidery; others have fronts of rows of embroidery and lace insertion.

Many of the Waists are elaborately inserted with Val. lace and finished with tucks; others have embroidery panels between rows of lace; some have yokes in round or V-shape, formed with rows of lace; several styles in the new Marie Antoinette with plain tucks and ruffle down front; others plain button back, graduated tucked front; long or short sleeves; practically every style or pattern you may fancy is among the lot. We have made provisions to serve the greatest crowds that have ever attended an occasion of this character in the city; $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50 values, each, 98c.

SOCIETY

NEWS OF THE DAY

Miss Ida Mellier owns a valuable Maltese terrier. It is the only one in town and was a blue ribbon doggie last spring at the show. Miss Mellier is very watchful of her snow white, silky haired little pet, and seldom allows "Princess" to leave the house and grounds. "Princess" is one heroine of my story, by the way.

Hugo Koehler owns a collie, "Fifi" by name and fleet of foot, gentle as to disposition and altogether a desirable dog also a playful one, being still in her youth. It is one of Mr. Koehler's most cherished ideals that "Fifi" is well disciplined, and she minds even the glance of his eye. There are those who know Mr. Koehler and "Fifi," who take exception to this belief, but they do not venture to dispute the gentleman when he says, as he often does, that "Fifi" is the most obedient dog in the land. It is always interesting to hear a story from two sides. This is what Miss Mellier has to say:

"One Sunday afternoon recently we sat in the living room with some friends, chatting and watching the promenaders. "Princess" lay on the floor directly in the open door. Suddenly a large collie dashed into the house, and, with my dog, tore up the staircase and disappeared on the second floor into one of the bedrooms, where we found them both in a few minutes having a rollicking play on a couch by the window. As the strange collie was about six times as large as "Princess," we were fearful that the other dog would eat her up, but nothing so alarming happened. Finally, after some difficulty, we drove the strange dog out of the house. I think it belonged to an anxious-looking young man across the street, who stood there whistling and calling to his collie in vain."

This is Mr. Koehler's version:

"Took 'Fifi' out for a stroll Sunday afternoon. Walked up Berlin avenue and felt proud of the dog's fine appearance, also of her perfect obedience. She will come if I even look at her, and understands every word I speak.

"Passed a corner house and had crossed the street when I saw a rascally little white dog of the terrier breed come straight out of that house and deliberately try to entice 'Fifi' in. My dog paid no attention to her at first, but being of a naturally playful disposition, 'Fifi' finally walked slowly up the steps and politely accompanied the other dog into the house. It was sheer politeness no Fifi's part, for I could see she didn't want to go. I didn't call her, for I knew that she would come right out again, and sure enough in five minutes she ran out the door and we proceeded on our walk up the street. Fifi is a splendid dog and certainly does mind exceptionally well."

French Lick Springs is claiming some St. Louis persons of prominence just at present. A correspondent writes: "We came over to the Springs last week on the same train with Lacey Crawford, Gardner McKnight and William J. Lemp Jr., all of whom are to be here for about two weeks. Mrs. D. R. Francis, Mrs. Perry Francis, Mrs. Rudolph Limberg, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Koehler and Mrs. Wells Blodgett, with Miss Margaret Blodgett, have been established here for the past week. We are outdoors most of the time, despite the cold, which is severe enough to warrant furs, though the air is clear and keen."

Returned to Pittsburgh After Visiting St. Louis

MRS JAMES L STEWART

Miss Leigh Whittemore went to Washington, D. C., last week, where she will be entertained as the guest of Capt. and Mrs. W. H. Wright, U. S. A. Sunday morning Mrs. Wright gave a breakfast to 35 guests in honor of Miss Whittemore, the men being mainly younger members of the diplomatic corps.

Miss Evelyn Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Bailey, 4341 West Pine boulevard, has lately been telling her intimate friends of her engagement to James B. Patterson of New York, and the additional information that they are to be married in the early fall. Mr. Patterson is visiting the family of his fiancee at present. He is well known in St. Louis and a non-resident member of the St. Louis Club.

LUCY HOSMER STOUGHTON.

Drs. Willis Young, Scott Parsons, George Melies and F. F. Fletcher have returned from the Missouri State Homeopathic convention held at Kansas City last week. Dr. Young read papers on two of the four days' sessions.

Personal Mention

Mrs. Clarence Brenizer will give a "five hundred" party Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. James Watson of this city is entertaining her sister, Mrs. Eduard Baggot of Chicago.

Mrs. Al Bauer of the Washington Hotel will entertain at "five hundred" Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Julia Cabanne, who has been in Texas for two months, is expected home the last of this week.

Mrs. Will Nicholls and Mrs. Al Nicholls will give a joint bridge party next Wednesday, May 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart McDonald have returned from their wedding trip and are at the Buckingham.

Mrs. Baarent Ten Broek of Maryland avenue will entertain her card club Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Blackwell have returned from the Hot Springs of Virginia, where they have spent a month.

Mrs. J. W. Kasper of Aubert avenue gave a dinner Saturday, in honor of Mayor Moore and Mrs. Moore of Casey, Ill.

Mrs. Cullen Battle will entertain Tuesday morning with a bridge party at the Jefferson, the card game to be followed by luncheon.

Mrs. Charles Mason has sent out cards for a luncheon in honor of Miss Stursberg of New York, who is visiting Miss Julie Nichols. This will be given on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar H. Rinnie of Westminster place, entertained their friends last week and organized a club to be known as the C. A. A. The guests enjoyed solos by Mr. Robinson.

Mrs. George Willard Teasdale will be entertained by several of her intimate friends this week before her departure for New York next Sunday. Mrs. Kreismann is to give a luncheon for her Tuesday afternoon, while on Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. George Walton Florsheim will entertain two card clubs with an informal party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Teasdale. The latter are to sail next week for Europe.

D. O. C. Bridge Party.

The Daughters of the Confederacy gave a large bridge party Monday afternoon from 2 till 5, at the Washington Hotel. About 400 were present.

The women on the Receiving Committee were: Mrs. Phil Chew, Mrs. William Kline, Mrs. Ben Givens, Mrs. Russell Gardner, Mrs. Alfred Bradford and Mrs. E. T. Campbell.

Misses Lucille Campbell, Anna Force, Adele Armstrong and Mattie Maddox have been invited to assist.

Mrs. Schoers' Luncheon.

Mrs. John Schroers will give an informal luncheon at the Mercantile Club Tuesday for the Committee of the Old Mill.

The purpose of the luncheon is to afford an opportunity to talk over details for this particular concession at the coming carnival at Delmar Garden.

These will be present: Mrs. Charles Huppig, Mrs. John Ockerson, Mrs. Harry Wagner, Mrs. E. L. Pretorius, Mrs. Robert McCullough and Mrs. Warwick Hough.

Dr. and Mrs. William Taussig, 3447 Lafayette, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Friday evening, May 3.

Dr. Taussig is prominent in club and railroad circles, and is identified with all movements for the advance of education.

Doctor and Mrs. Taussig have three children: Frank W. Taussig, professor of economics at Harvard University; Walter M. Taussig, president Wiebush-Hilger Hardware Co., New York, and Mrs. Alfred W. Brandees of Louisville, Ky., all of whom will be present.

Young People's Orchestra.

The Young Peoples' String Orchestra, conducted by Victor Lichtenstein, gave a very enjoyable concert Sunday afternoon in the Musical Art Building.

They were assisted by Miss Hedwig Fritsch, soprano; Jacob Lieberstein and Julius Silberberg, soloists.

One of the vigorously applauded numbers was the Third Symphony from opus 109 (Dancla), by the violin choir. The solo work in this number was admirably handled by Master Saul Cohen. Master Cohen is a 10-year-old member of the orchestra, who shows promise. The ensemble work of the orchestra was particularly harmonious.

Solo numbers were all enthusiastically received.

This orchestra is composed exclusively of Mr. Lichtenstein's pupils, and give concerts semi-annually.

Mrs. Phillip N. Moore, Mrs. G. J. Frankel, Mrs. Robert Atkinson, Mrs. C. S. Hillearv, Mrs. Horace McPharland, Mrs. W. Sirson, Mrs. S. L. Jones, Mrs. B. S. Adams, Mrs. E. H. Holton, Mrs. W. R. Silvvis, Mrs. J. Melhaus, Mrs. S. J. Keiffer, Mrs. T. E. Ferguson and Mrs. F. H. English will leave Monday night by special car for Joplin, Mo. They will represent their several clubs at the second biennial meeting of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, to be held in that city from April 30 to May 2.

Thirty-five other cities will be represented, but St. Louis leads in the number of delegates. Miss Jane Winn of St. Louis will be present as chairman of the Press Committee.

The address of welcome will be made by Mrs. J. J. Donnehoo of Joplin.

The sessions will be held in the First Methodist Church. The program includes music and discussions. Political and domestic economy, art, educational topics and literature will be the main subjects discussed.

The delegates will be entertained May 2 by Carthage. One session will be held there.

Many of the delegates will be entertained during their stay at the homes of the 64 federated club members of Joplin.

Among entertainments planned is an automobile excursion to the lead and zinc mines.

The meeting shows promise of being the largest of its kind, in point of numbers, ever held in Missouri.

The Papyrus Club will meet Thursday evening, May 2, at 7 o'clock, Planters Hotel. After dinner the following program will be given:

Piano solos.....Miss Nanka Faucette
(a) My First Composition, (b) An Elysian Dream, (c) Southern Echoes.—Nanka Faucette.
Address.....Miss Margaret R. Ludlaw
The Pioneer Drama of the West and South as Seen by N. M. Ludlow.

MISS MILLIE MILLS

You Need Tone

need nerve force and vitality—what doctors call "tone"—to enable them to throw off disease and build up their flagging forces. No matter what form of female trouble you suffer from, if you lack tone you will find it impossible to recover. Tonics give tone. Hence their name. Women should take a female tonic—Wine of Cardui—which acts principally on the womanly organs and constitution. Purely vegetable, non-intoxicating, harmless, yet powerful in curative properties, Cardui fills all the requirements of an ideal tonic for sick and ailing women.

Mrs. Blanche E. Stephanou, a well-known lady residing at 1228 S. 42nd Av., Chicago, Ill, writes as follows:

"Five years ago I suffered with a constant backache. I also had a pain in my side and am almost unable to describe how miserable I felt. Of course, living in a large city like Chicago, I received treatment from some of the finest doctors in the city, which did me no good. At last I began to take Wine of Cardui, and from the very first bottle I can truthfully say I began to improve. I have now taken eight bottles and look and feel like a different person. My troubles are gone, and I am getting stouter."

Animals' Queer Ways

Birds, as well as four-footed animals, often avail themselves of the labor of others in home making. Skunks use woodchuck burrows. White-footed mice and flying squirrels are fond of building in holes in decaying trees made by woodpeckers, and bumblebees take possession of mice nests in the ground, but nothing can just fill the place of Dr. Burkhart's Vegetable Compound. As a remedy for catarrh, rheumatism, la grippe, kidney and liver diseases it is pre-eminent and is in a class by itself, as testified to by 13,500,000 patients who have been benefited by it during the past year. It is simple, effective, absolutely pure and free from all deleterious substances calculated to injure the most sensitive organs. Thirty days' treatment, 25c. All druggists.

PILES ANAKESIS gives instant relief and POSITIVELY CURES PILES. Price $1, at druggists or by mail. Sample free. Address "ANAKESIS" Tribune Bldg., New York.

BROWNS WIN TWO WHILE CARDINALS LOSE

NEWS OF SPORT | EDITED BY NIE. | FROM EVERYWHERE

CITY LEAGUE HAS BIG OPENING.

"BAT" NELSON HERE WITH A PRIVATE SECRETARY

Scrapper on the Way to Hot Springs for a Rest Still Insists That He Is the World's Lightweight Champion.

OSCAR BATTLING NELSON, Mayor of Hedgewisch, owner of the Battling Nelson Mining Co., and who still insists that he is the champion lightweight scrapper of the world, spent several hours in St. Louis yesterday. Nelson was on his way to Hot Springs, where he goes to rest up for several weeks. He claims that his long trip through Europe, while a grand success from a financial standpoint, did not benefit his health much. Nelson was accompanied by his brother, Henry, who now acts as his secretary.

The Battler looks the very picture of health, and says he weighs just 152 pounds. He registered at the Southern, where the champions Cubs were holding forth, and during the day he was a guest of Chubby Charles Murphy and Frank Chance, both of whom are old friends of his. Nelson visited League Park and viewed the opening game. He and Big Johnny Powell are close friends, and Nelson, who occupied a seat in the press box, rooted hard throughout for his friend Powell.

Nelson, after the conclusion of the game, hurried to the Browns' dressing room, where he was the first to congratulate Powell for his sterling exhibition of boxmanship.

Said the Battler: "I am on my way to Hot Springs, where I go to rest up and take off a bundle of weight accumulated while doing the old country. I enjoyed the trip all right, but the good old United States for mine. I didn't see any scrappers over there worth speaking about. That's one thing that Johnny Bull don't class with us in. I was accorded hearty receptions everywhere I showed, and, besides, I drew just £200 a week, or $1000, in our good money.

"I have not heard anything from Gans of late. He is holding out on the weight question, and, besides, he wants the lion's share of the purse. He will have to meet me under fair conditions or there won't be any fight.

"I, of course, want to take another crack at him, as I beat him before and can do it again. Gans' manager has my terms and if he don't get busy pretty soon he will lose the chance to meet me. It is my intention after boiling out down at the springs to go to Tonopah, where I have over $50,000 invested in my mine. I received word from my manager that the mine is now well under operation and that pay dirt is being taken out."

After the conclusion of the opening game at Hedges' park, Nelson went over to the National League game, where he occupied a box in company with President Murphy of the Cubs and Frank Robison of the Cardinals. The Battler was handed quite a noisy welcome at both parks. He rooted hard for the Cubs against the Cardinals and when the champs won, the Battler chased out on the field and shook hands with all of them.

While seated in the press box at the Hedges green and seeing the great crowd of enthusiasts flocking about and crowding the stands, he said: "Say, but wouldn't this make an ideal spot in which to pull off the next battle between me and the coon? Say, on a delightful, sunny Sunday afternoon like this, I would give the owner of this park $20,000 for the privilege of showing here. He could pull off a ball game before the boxing exhibition."

The Battler is not very well posted on baseball matters. When he saw Powell dodge off the field he asked the Post-Dispatch man what was the matter. He thought Powell had to pitch the second game also.

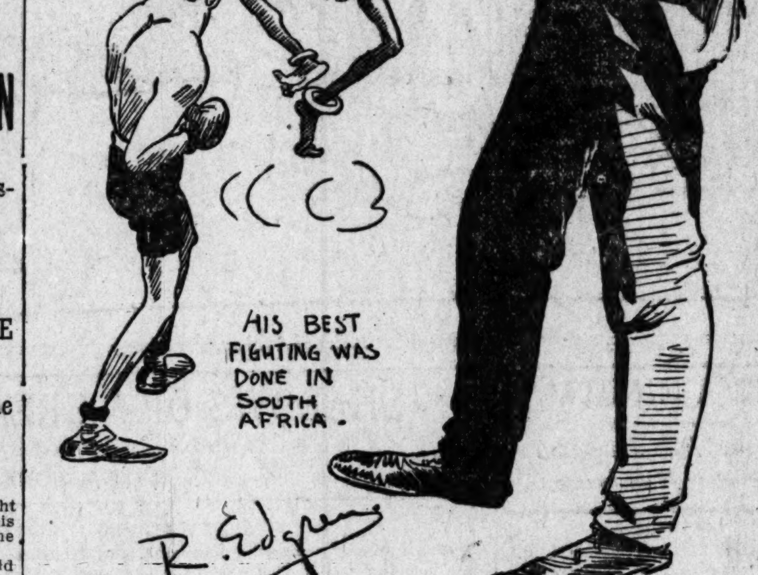

"Gee, us boxers have to fight like blazes sometimes for six or seven hours. Here, big Jack only worked 1 hour and 37 minutes and he didn't even get up a sweat. Pretty fine business for these big twirlers. Why, that big boilermaker is stronger than Jim Jeffries. He could pitch a whole week without stopping. I know this and so does he. He ought to come back and work through this second game, just to show the big crowd how good he is."

Then the friendly little fellow hurried after Powell to ask him to go on in the next bout.

Last night the Battler was a guest of Chubby Charles Murphy, president of the Cubs, at a little spread at the Southern Hotel. He departed for Hot Springs at 10 o'clock.

JOHNNY SUMMERS, WHO WOULD FIGHT NELSON AND THEN GANS.

FRANK GOTCH HERE, MAY MEET OLSON

Champion Heavyweight Wrestler Drops Off in St. Louis to Call on Lajoie.

CLAIMS WORLD'S TITLE

Thinks St. Louis Man Only One in Game Able to Give Him Trouble.

Frank Gotch, champion eavyweight wrestler of America, arrived in St. Louis on his way to Kansas City, where he has a match Tuesday night.

This is the first visit Gotch has paid to St. Louis in some time. He is jumping all over the country wrestling about five bouts a week and meeting all comers.

The champion looks to be in better shape than he ever was before and says that he never felt better. After the bout in Kansas City he is going to his farm in Iowa for a week or two to look after the crops. He has 800 acres in the corn belt under cultivation and has always met with great success farming.

"Anybody who wants to have a try at me and my title can come ahead and meet me now on a day's notice," said Gotch this morning. "While my title is only that of champion of America I am really the champion of the world, for Hackenschmidt has dodged me consistently.

"Right here in St. Louis you have a man who is anxious to take me on, and I think I'll give him a chance in the near future. I mean Charley Olsen, who will wrestle Yankee Rogers next Sunday night at the Olympic Theater. Olson is a great wrestler and the man who seems the most likely to throw me if I am ever to be thrown. I will be here at next Sunday night's match, and if Olsen wants to talk business he can do so then. I'd like to pull off a good bout here. St. Louis people like a good, fast match, and I think Olsen could make it interesting for me and for them.

"All will depend upon what Ilson does with Yankee Rogers, however. Rogers is a big, powerful fellow, who is full of fight all the way, and your St. Louis man will have his hands full.

"I just stopped over in St. Louis on my way from Chicago to Kansas City. Lajoie of the Cleveland team is a great friend of mine, and I thought I would spend a few hours with him.

MISS SUTTON IS TOURNEY FEATURE

NEW YORK, April 29.—Indoor tennis at St. Nicholas Rink will close this week. Interest centers in the showing of Miss May Sutton against such women opponents as Miss Elizabeth H. Moore, ex-national champion; Miss Helen Homans, national champion, and several other experts. Following the close of the indoor series, Miss Sutton will get two weeks of outdoor play before leaving for England, May 17.

Arrangements are to be perfected this week for out-door practice of the international team. Tournaments will probably be played at Knollwood, the country club of West Chester, Crescent Athletic Club and the Merion Cricket Club, Belmont Cricket Club and Germantown Cricket Club of Philadelphia. Each probably will get a week of play with the American challengers pitted against such experts as William A. Larned, W. J. Lothier, Robert D. Wrenn and George L. Wrenn Jr. as trial horses.

THE CITY LEAGUE STARTS OFF WITH BIG CROWD EVERYWHERE

The opening games of the recently organized City Baseball League were attended far beyond the expectations of the officers, over three thousand being present at South End Park, while nearly two thousand witnessed the games at Empire and Zimmerman's Parks.

The contest between the Washingtons and Orphan Boys required ten innings, and was replete with sensational hitting, fielding and base-running. Bieger, for the winners, had 11 strikeouts and passed but one man, while Weiss had but four strikeouts and one pass. O'Neill helped very materially to win the game by his batting, having four hits, one a two-base hit and a home run. Fenton's team played a hard game and seemed to have the game won until the ninth inning.

The Nadjas-St. Leos game was very good, the score being 5 to 2, and was played in 1 hour and 45 minutes. Carroll and Miller were the batting heroes, each making two-base hits. Durney made two timely singles that were needed.

The Globe-North End game was a batting game, 31 hits being made by both teams, and 16 errors are charged to the two clubs. Neither team seemed able to get their eye on the ball, except when at bat, and while the North Ends earned half of their runs by terrific batting, the Globes' runs were mostly on bad plays. Both teams will be strengthened materially before next Sunday.

At all of the parks there were more or less elaborate exercises to mark the opening of the season. At the Empire Park Mr. Gus Wenneker was presented with a huge bunch of American Beauty roses as he pitched the first ball, and at Orphan Boy Park Judge Spiess startled the natives by pitching a strike for the first ball. At the Globe Park a full military band was in attendance and played during the game.

Maurice Landau, the president of the City National Bank and the Globe Clothing Co., pitched the first ball, and was presented with a large bouquet of flowers. As the games now stand the Orphan Boys, Nadjas and North Ends are each 1000, while the Globes, Washingtons and St. Leos hope for better luck next Sunday.

MISSOURI WOULD DICTATE ATHLETICS

Break May Come With Local Universities Owing to Tiger Policies.

In direct contrast to the dictatorial policy of Missouri University this year in regard to the arrangement of a date for a dual track meet with Washington University has been the uniformly sportsmanlike and considerate action of the university managements that have scheduled the spring contests between St. Louis University and Washington.

Missouri for the past few years attaining notoriety on account of the "Hetherington purity idea." has attempted to dictate to every university it meets in athletic contests. Last year their action made it impossible for Washington to arrange a baseball series, and this year it seems that it is all but certain the two schools will be unable to meet on field and track.

On the other hand the most pleasing feature of the resumption of athletic relations between the Myrtle and Maroon and the Blue and White has been the splendid spirit shown by both institutions. It is rather discouraging when colleges who are supposed to represent the embodiment of the idea of sport for sport's sake, bicker and wrangle over the smallest of technicalities and minutest of details, and on the other hand it is highly gratifying and inspiriting to see university men living up to their training, standards and traditions of fair play and clean honest sportsmanship. And this has been the dominating feature of the conduct of both Washington and St. Louis universities.

So pronounced has been this pleasing feature that it has excited wide comment and presages more favorable than anything else the formation of some organization that will be controlled by the same spirit and will act along the same sportsmanlike lines.

ALGONQUINS WILL OPEN GOLF SEASON

Arrange for Big Tournament to Be Played Next Saturday Afternoon.

The Algonquin Golf Club will open its season next Saturday with a tournament which will be started at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The play will be as follows:

For directors' cup championship—The first eight players making best medal score for 18 holes will play off for directors' cup.

Class A championship—The second eight players making next best medal score for 18 holes will play off for Class A.

Class B championship—The third eight players making next best medal score will play off for Class B.

Consolation—The players who do not qualify in any of the above events will play off for the consolation prize.

By this arrangement every player entering will have an opportunity of winning a prize.

Entries will be received by Instructor White, at the clubhouse. There should be a very large entry for this tournament.

Prizes—Directors' cup championship—Winner to have trophy cup and possession of directors' cup for one year.

Class A—Silver cup and one dozen golf balls.

Class B—Silver cup and one dozen golf balls.

Consolation—Silver cup and one dozen golf balls.

Best medal score, qualifying round—One dozen golf balls.

Runner-up for directors' cup—One dozen golf balls.

Qualifying round, medal play and then match play until finished.

The directors' cup is donated by directors individually and to be played for each year, and remain in possession of winner until won by someone else. No entrance fee for the tournament.

The Committee on Tennis is perfecting plans for scratch and handicap tournaments. Winner of the former will be entitled to retain in his possession for one year and until won by someone else, the president tennis cup. Davis Biggs, Herbert M. Morgan, A. H. Richardson and L. H. Thompson form the Tennis Committee.

THE WORM TURNS; ALL IS FORGIVEN

Powell and Howell Pitch Two Great Games and Browns Are Winners.

"Wait till the sun shines brightly and then you'll see my lads go a rolling round," has been the continued cry of Jimmy McAleer ever since the season opened. Like the story in the old schoolbook about the boy and his cry of "the wolf, the wolf," Jimmy's pleadings for warm weather was becoming a kind of forlorn wail. But the worm has turned. It flopped a double flip-flap yesterday and Lajoie and his fighting band were used up badly.

Weather conditions were ideal for baseball. The Hedges park was packed from cellar to roof. It was a very friendly, enthusiastic assemblage, and everybody went home pleased beyond words.

Both games were fast. The pitching of Powell and Hess in the first act was delightful to look upon. Powell made his debut of the season on the rise. He did 13 grand innings against the Cardinals a few weeks ago, and the result is now a historical baseball fact—1 to 0.

Yesterday Big Johnny handed out great speed, curves galore and his control was so perfect he could "bust" the eye out of a needle at 100 paces. The Blues were as mere bush leaguers before that great, powerful fellow. Flick, Lajoie, Bradley, Clarke and those other pitcher killing stars or the famous club were lucky to even foul the ball, not to speak of swatting cleanly and moving around the sacks.

Then Powell's comrades, all tickled to death to get back home and delighted because of the warm weather, cut loose, and how they did field, bat, run the bases and slug the slants of the big southpaw Hess! Powell didn't allow a Blue to wander past second base. He has so far twirled 22 innings this season, and not one athlete has crossed the registering pan. This is a record worthy of mention and it means that this great star is right in the spring of '07 for the first time in several years.

Sensation No. 2 of the afternoon was the 2-1 victory over the Larry's with the Browns' leading twirler right now, Harry Howell, basking in the sun spots on the hill. Howell, like his big associate, Powell, was simply unhittable and consequently unbeatable. The Browns handed him nine innings of refreshing and spectacular support. Then the band, particularly Stone, Delehanty, Pickering and Yeager, belted the dinks of ex-Cardinal Jake Theilman hard at opportune stages.

Howell held the wonderful Blues down to two stingy safeties, both of which came over in the initial inning. Harry walked Hinchman, the first batter up, a sacrifice by Stovall and successive singles by Flick and Lajoie counted big Hinchman with the Blues' only run. After that the visitors walked up to the plate and danced out, inning after inning, with painful regularity.

Today the team meets the Clevelands once more.

CARDINALS ARE STILL ON BUMPS

Nationals Make It Eight Straight Lost in Sunday Double-Header.

The Cardinals indulged in a double-header with the champion Cubs at League Park yesterday as per schedule and fell down badly much to the sorrow of several thousand rooters. Up to yesterday the McCloskey children had lost six straight games, four to Pittsburg and two to Chicago. Both contests yesterday were hard-fought ones, but as usual the Cardinals made bad breaks at critical stages of the fun and the Cubs in each instance were the gainers thereby.

In the opening show Fred Beebe shone in the box for the locals and Jack Taylor, a former Cardinal, worked against him. According to the official score of this game, Taylor was whacked safely just ten times, but still the home boys were able to register but two runs. Taylor is not a strike-out pitcher, but he possesses the faculty of keeping the hits well scattered and he seldom allows any club more than three or four runs when he is going good. On the other hand the champs managed to crack big Beebe safely only three times. Four errors, all of which cost something, tell the tale of the three runs and game for the Cubs.

Exhibition two became a pitchers' battle between Fromme and Chick Fraser. Four safeties, two of which came in the third, when the visitors scored the winning run, were pushed out off the local flinger. Fraser opened with a single and came home when Randall cracked the ball hard along the left foul line for three bases. The Cardinals couldn't touch Fraser, excepting one safety, and a double by Beckley in the eighth. He expired on third for the want of a friendly tap to send him home.

S.S.S. KILLS THE GERMS OF SCROFULA

Through the blood, diseases are carried from one generation to another. Parents transmit them to their children, and so it goes on down the family line for years and years unless the taint is removed from the blood. Especially is this true of Scrofula, for it is a disease that is "bred in the bone," and unless the blood is purified and every trace of the trouble removed the miserable disease will finally undermine the entire health and wreck the life of its victim. The usual symptoms of Scrofula are enlarged glands or tumors about the neck, which often burst and become discharging ulcers, weak eyes, Catarrh of the head and throat, skin diseases, etc. The trouble being so firmly intrenched in the blood often attacks the bones, resulting in White Swelling, or hip disease, while a waxy, pallid appearance of the skin, loss of strength and energy, and often lung affections, show that the disease is entirely destroying the bright red corpuscles and rich, nutritive qualities of the blood. Scrofula being a constitutional disease, one affecting the entire circulation, must be treated with a remedy that builds up and strengthens every part of the system, which has so long been denied the strength and nourishment it should have received from the blood. S. S. S. is the best of all blood purifiers and the greatest of all tonics, and is therefore the ideal remedy for Scrofula. S. S. S. searches out and destroys all germs, taints and poisons, gives strength, richness and vigor to the blood and cures Scrofula permanently. It so thoroughly removes the trouble form the blood that no signs of it are ever seen again, and posterity is started out in life with a clean, pure blood supply, which is their rightful inheritance. S. S. S. while thorough, is gentle in its action, and the healing ingredients which compose it build up every part of the system. Book on the blood and medical advice free. FANCIERS ASSERT PERFECT DOG HAS NOT BEEN FOUND

More Mystery About Actual Origin of Canine Than Any Other Domestic Animal—The Different Breeds.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

IN spite of the disdainful and patrician expressions on the canine countenances at a modern dog show, indicative of countless generations of social supremacy in the animal kingdom, the actual origin of the dog is more completely shrouded in obscurity than that of any of the domestic animals. Naturalists are still wrangling over his parent stock, arguing that it is almost impossible for the 185 known varieties to be all descended from one kind, whatever it might have been. The world of dog lovers is only indebted to America for the production of two new species.

Best known of these two is the Boston terrier, the little round-headed, brindled bull terrier, which is good for only ornamentation. A little over 30 years ago Robert C. Hooper of Boston purchased a nondescript little dog from William O'Brien, also of Boston. The newcomer was a half-breed bull and terrier, of the fighting type, dark brindle in color, with a blazed face. With this material Mr. Hooper went to work to produce a new type, and by adding a golder color, a milder lip and regulating the marking on the head, he at last produced the "Boston terrier." This breed is altogether American, but it has only been admitted to the shows during the past ten years. For a long time it was scornfully referred to by the owners of the purer breed as "that little bullet-headed pup from Massachusetts." Whether from patriotism or genuine appreciation, the Boston terrier is now the most popular dog in America, except the collie.

The other dog which America has produced is the Chesapeake Bay retriever, whose birth is as accidental, and even more obscure than the Boston terrier. These dogs are great favorites at the Carroll Island Club, near Baltimore, as they are water retrievers and can be used for duck shooting. Gen. Latrobe, who has charge of the dogs of the Carroll Island Club, gives this story of their origin:

Popular in the West.

"A NUMBER of years ago a vessel from Newfoundland ran aground near an estate called Walnut Grove, on the shores of the Chesapeake. The estate belonged to George Law, a member of a well-known Maryland family. On board were two Newfoundland dogs, which were given to Mr. Law by the captain in return for his hospitality. The Chesapeake Bay retriever is a cross between those two dogs and the black and tan hounds, or coon dogs, of that section."

This dog is popular in the West, particularly in Portland, Seattle and other points along the Pacific Coast.

America has done much to push the fad for the modern bulldog, for the word has gone out to dog fanciers of every land that they cannot be too monstrous or distorted to please the judges of an American dog show. Each year their legs get farther apart, and their faces uglier, if that is possible. Dog fanciers are now predicting a reaction in bulldog breeding, which shall seek to re-establish the original type of short-nosed mastiff which fought bulls in Spain and England in 1800, then fell into such bad repute in 1835. The first presentable bulldog shown in this country was sent from England in 1880.

Gen. Lafayette sent the first St. Bernard dogs to America. When he came back in 1824 he met J. F. Skinner, ex-Assistant-Postmaster-General, who was at that time greatly interested in dogs. With the aid of Gen. Lafayette he brought to America some excellent spaniels, and in 1830 Gen. Lafayette sent him two big St. Bernards. They were the first of their kind that America had seen, and the fad for them was instantaneous. The prices for big dogs of all kinds immediately soared, and as soon as St. Bernards were established the puppies sold for several hundred dollars, and the full-grown dogs were proportionately high priced. Now it is difficult to get $50 for a St. Bernard puppy, and $100 is a ...re price to get for any of the breed.

Diversity in Breeding.

IT is from this class that all the biggest dogs come. The largest canine of which there is any record was a St. Bernard named "Giant Rector," who measured 6½ feet from the tip of his nose to the tip of his tail, and measured 34½ inches to the top of his shoulder. He was displayed all over the country as the biggest dog in the world. When he is compared with the smallest of all the toy dogs, a Mexican poodle, which measures 7 inches from tip to tip, and weighs only a few ounces, it is indeed cause for wonder if they came from the same parent stock. The great Dane is a favorite with Americans, and there are more of them in this country than of any other one breed. When the Prince of Wales left this continent after his memorable visit he was presented with an enormous great Dane, the biggest that had ever been seen at that time.

The highly cultivated dogs in this country represent a considerable investment of American capital, and some of the kennels shelter canine kings which are almost priceless. Until 1880, $1000 was the highest price that had ever been paid for an imported dog, John E. Thayer giving that for a fox terrier, but later Richard Croker bought a white English bull which cost him $10,000. J. Pierpont Morgan has the finest collection of collies in the world. The collie is undeniably the peer of dogs in America, and has for years enjoyed unchallenged supremacy. Mr. Morgan's kennels contain some of the most perfect specimens of the fancier's art and patience. His exhibits, with those of Samuel Untermeyer of Yonkers, N. Y., are sufficient to crowd the halls of any show.

Toy Dogs Not Popular.

THE toy dogs have never gained the footing here which they maintain in other countries, particularly in France, though some of the very small poodles are constant visitors to the shows. Japanese poodles are perhaps most favored. They were brought here 50 years ago by Commodore Perry when he returned from his expedition to Japan. Dogs are among the things which are indispensable as imperial presents, and among the gifts brought by Commodore Perry from the Mikado to the American President were four little Japanese poodles. They and their children were used as "sleeve dogs," and weighed scarcely two pounds. The cause for dogs being popular gifts among royal persons dates back, it is said, to the time of the Egyptian kings, who used the animals as tribute.

When the fashionable American woman wants to take up a dog fad she adopts some particular breed, preferably a bull terrier or a collie. A prominent New York woman who makes a specialty of bulldogs and who travels a great deal had the head of her favorite bulldog painted on all her trunks as a sort of monogram. In New York there is a young woman who paints only fashionable dogs. She has a beautifully appointed studio, engagements for sittings are booked weeks ahead, and she finds making portraits of these canine aristocrats not only enjoyable, but exceedingly lucrative.

Perfect Dogs Not Found.

WHILE many new breeds have been produced during the past fifty years, fanciers claim that a perfect dog has never been seen anywhere. It is difficult to understand what the standard is, if a perfect one has never been produced, but the training of them will give the dog fanciers something to do, and in the meantime every honest man with a clear conscience will go on loving his own little dog, regardless of blemishes or dog-show points.

Examples of the intelligence of dogs are far too numerous for comprehensive mention, but one notable instance is that of "Old Calvin," the devout Presbyterian dog, which belonged to Hon. Gustavus A. Henry, Whig orator and able lawyer of Clarkesville, Tenn. Calvin had contracted the church-going habit early in life, and went each Sunday to the Presbyterian church for morning service. His piety abated not when his master died and ceased setting the excellent example, for Calvin went each Sunday morning, and sat in the church aisle, listening attentively to the sermon.

Then an enterprising young preacher attempted to introduce the "Christian" faith into Clarkesville. On the Sunday when he was to preach in the new church, Calvin worked his way through the crowd, seated himself on the right of the altar and waited for the preacher to begin. The old dog was patient attention for some time, while the young enthusiast piled his hearers with Christian truths, but when the service was about half over, old Calvin's ears dropped, and, picking himself up from the altar, he walked majestically down the aisle, out the door and to the outer church in time to hear the last of the Presbyterian service.

One of the most famous dogs in the United States was Oney, a stray who took up with the postal clerks some years ago. He was not particular what clerk he was with or what car he was on, just so it was a mail car, with the men at work in it. The papers printed the story of the canine waif's strange infatuation for the atmosphere of mail cars, and every clerk in the service wanted Oney to travel with him for at least one trip. At first tags were tied to his collar stating where he had been on his travels, and when these became so numerous as to impede his movements, a harness was made for him. With this trapping he traveled over practically every mail route in the United States, Canada, Great Britain and Mexico. When this noted canine traveler died he was sent to a taxidermist and today his stuffed form with all his badges constitutes one of the exhibits in the Postoffice museum.

Lamplighters' Strike to End.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The strike of the Lamplighters' Union, which went into effect last week against the Welsbach Lighting Co., for recognition of the union and higher wages, may be settled today. A conference between representatives of the company and the strikers has been arranged, and will be held today. The lights were kept burning in the city yesterday all day, as they have been since the strike started.

The question of squeezing the water out of the stocks and bonds of public service corporations is one of the issues of the battle for justice between the corporations and the people. One would think from the declamatory protests against it on the part of corporation agents, that the proposal is illegal and revolutionary. But that is not the view taken of it by the United States Supreme Court in the Nebraska case decided in March, 1898. The counsel for the corporations insisted that the public using the railroads was bound to pay interest on all outstanding bonds and dividends on all outstanding stock, whatever the amount might be. The decision of the court is clear on this point. It says:

"It cannot be admitted that a railroad corporation maintaining a highway under the authority of the State may fix its rates with a view solely to its own interests and ignore the rights of the public. But the rights of the public would be ignored if rates for the transportation of persons or property on a railroad are exacted without reference to the fair value of the property used for the public or the fair value of the service rendered; but in order simply that the corporation may meet operating expenses, pay the interest on its obligations and declare a dividend to stockholders. If a railroad corporation has bonded its property for an amount that exceeds its fair value, or if its capitalization is largely fictitious, it may not impose upon the public the burden of such increased rates as may be required for the purpose of realizing profits on such excessive valuation or fictitious capitalization."

In the light of this decision of the highest court of the land, there ought not to be any doubt as to the basis of reasonable and just railroad rates or of charges of public utility companies.

Possibly the complaints against the retiring Commissioner of Patents are not all inventions.

AN ISSUE SQUARED.

The St. Louis House of Delegates never did a better thing in its history than when it "squared the issue" against the statute under which its members are threatened with imprisonment or fine if they refuse to vote appropriations from the City Treasury demanded by the State Board.

In the resolution as it has been forwarded to Jefferson City, it is represented that "We, the members of the St. Louis Municipal Assembly, are again confronted with the necessity of voting an appropriation for the Police Department of St. Louis, regardless of the dictates of our judgment as to the amount thereof, under the penalty of severe punishment."

In an American city, or even in a Russian City, this ought to be an incredible absurdity. Although as absurd as it is criminally demoralizing, the act which makes this threat survives on the Missouri statute books from the period of lobby control, boss rule and machine domination at Jefferson City.

While it does remain on the statute books, its presence contradicts every pretense of reform. Its principle violates every principle of lawful, representative and responsible government.

The issue ought not only to be squared, but to be kept so until Missouri is no longer disgraced by this contradiction of its own institutions.

Japan is not merely building battleships. She is paying $29, at the mills, for American steel rails, to be laid for the South Manchuria Railway.

A SCIENTIFIC VIEW.

The repudiation of Honore Jaxon of Chicago as "an authorized representative of organized labor" is explained on the ground that he was "seeking notoriety for personal ends," and it is openly asserted that his principal object in seeking fame is to increase the sale of a special brand of breakfast food.

If this is a correct representation of Mr. Jaxon's case, we have a fundamental problem of anthropology dragged up at last from the bottom to the surface, where it is in plain view, as it never has been before in the whole history of civilization.

At the very beginning of civilization, we find heroes rushing out between the lines suddenly and throwing their shining and far-flying spears at the main man of the enemy, just as Mr. Jaxon impelled his far-flying missile with a 2-cent stamp to Washington and the White House.

What these ancient heroes were after in every case was "kudos," which is now sometimes called "fame" and sometimes "glory," or in connection with publicity for breakfast foods and the like, "cheap notoriety."

Usually, when the best man of the enemy (himself in quest of more "kudos") stood out between the lines and shook his far-flying spear as an invitation to the best man on the other side to step forward and take what was coming to them, a brief consultation was held and the best man was picked out to meet him. If this best man, so selected as an "authorized representative," happened to get a lance driven through him, a terrific struggle at once followed for possession of his remains, in which all concerned acquired fame as far as they survived. If, however, some small man, who did not wait to be selected, "sought notoriety" by rushing out between the lines on his own account and was killed, his remains were left "a prey for dogs and all birds," so that he would have no "kudos."

Fame and incidentals were the rewards of all authorized heroes. When they secured it in the regular way, the best men who fought between the lines on both sides sometimes exchanged belts and swords afterwards and ruled over the rest in peace because they had made each other famous, while the fighting was on hand. This, in fact, was generally the real purpose of the fighting, from beginning to end.

As a matter of anthropology, this has been going on, in one way or another, from century to century, until we have this modern development of an unauthorized champion who rushes out between the lines and secures what was not properly coming to him, but to some authorized representative who would have used the fame secured thus for authorized purposes of publicity and not for advertising the breakfast food he carries as an unauthorized side line.

The official invitation to Gen. Kuroki to visit St. Louis has been sent to Seattle to meet the General upon his arrival. In the event of his acceptance of the invitation, the time to prepare for his suitable reception and entertainment will be short. The work of preparation in the way of outlining a simple, but appropriate program and finding ways and means to carry it out should begin at once. Committees for this purpose should be appointed by the Mayor.

ST. LOUIS POPULATION.

The police count of the population of St. Louis will either show it over the 700,000 mark or else show that the Federal census of 1900 was not a genuine count, but such a mere "expert" estimate as the Census Bureau gives out during the "off years" or in campaign years.

If we were disposed to quarrel with the Census Bureau, we might begin by thanking it for the favors it distributed just before a congressional election to St. Louis and all other manufacturing cities in reach of doubtful congressional districts. But St. Louis deserved all it got and it is not disposed to quarrel with the Census Bureau.

It does not need to quarrel. Besides, the rapidly growing population the city has inside its limits, it has population enough for another great city within ten miles of its limits. This is St. Louis population. It makes St. Louis business and depends on it. So does the population within twenty miles, fifty miles, a hundred miles of the business center of the city. It is St. Louis population, constantly making business for the city and depending on the city for business.

This is true of the population when the circle is extended to two hundred, three hundred and five hundred miles, over a country now growing so fast that the only difficulty of realizing greatness lies in keeping up with it. All are making business for St. Louis and St. Louis is making business for them all.

St. Louis can get no "set back" in its work from Washington or anywhere else, so long as the city itself advances into its own future and continues to act on its own motto of "To the Front."

The legal execution of two fine bird dogs in Kentucky for killing sheep may lead to the abolition of capital punishment in the Bluegrass State.

THE BALLOONING SEASON.

Ballooning in St. Louis as the center of balloon activities for the coming year, was successfully inaugurated by the ascension of Alan R. Hawley, who will pilot the balloon of the St. Louis Aero Club in the races next fall. Mr. Hawley made the start under conditions which came near resulting in disaster, but which his presence of mind and quickness averted. He traveled 65 miles in a couple of hours and alighted safely near Carrollton, Ill.

On the first day when wind conditions promise a swift voyage eastward, Mr. J. C. McCoy of the Aero Club of America, with Capt. C. D. Chandler of the United States Army Signal Corps, will try to beat the record of Lieut. Lahm and win the Lahm cup. It will be necessary to go something over 402 miles, which is the record made by Lieut. Lahm in the Paris race. During the summer and early autumn there will be many preliminary ascensions in preparation for the great race for the Bennett cup in October. The balloon will be a common sight in the St. Louis sky.

Under the rules adopted by the Aero Club of Paris, which require at least ten ascensions before a license is issued to a balloon pilot, accidents have been reduced to a minimum. Only experienced men are permitted to take charge of a balloon. Paris has been for several years the scene of almost daily ascensions, but no serious accident has occurred. While little improvement can be expected in mere ballooning, much information concerning the upper air is gained, and a decided stimulus is given to experiment with dirigible aerial vessels and flying machines. One of the features of the races next Autumn will be a contest for dirigible balloons and machines, for which a prize of $5000 has been offered by the St. Louis Aero Club. Ballooning is at least a great sport, requiring courage, skill, presence of mind, quickness in emergency. Aeronauts agree that it offers delightful rewards in magnificent views and thrilling sensations.

Some Boston Mark Antony is offering Roosevelt the presidency for life. It is amazing that the community that dumped the royal tea into the ocean should harbor an Antony.

GUESS WHO'S COMING!

Illustrated Conundrum by a Post-Dispatch Cartoonist.

JUST A MINUTE

With the Post-Dispatch Poets and Humorists.

L'ENVOI.

When the last dollar is cornered and the maddest among us has won,
When the fierce struggle is over and one man has got all the mun,
We shall rest, and faith we shall need it—have done with the din and strife,
And try to forget about money, and follow the normal life.

And no one shall ever gamble with tickers and stocks and such,
And no one shall skin the orphan for little or more or much.
The cheats of trade will forever be obsolete and dead,
And men will give up grabbing for other people's bread.

And those entertaining delusions that only money is good,
Shall be regenerated and live in the heart of the wood.
They shall love the trees of the forest,
and treasure the birds and skies,
And the lust that was kindled for money shall die away in their eyes.

The Harrimans all shall be poets, and Nature shall make them content,
And none shall inquire of another the means of acquiring a cent.
The Morgans shall wander as children in seldom and primitive skins,
And none shall desire to remind them of old and acquisitive sins.

And only Rockefeller shall own us, and only Rockefeller shall gloat,
And none of us here shall mind it, all in a similar boat.
The pirate will forage for flowers, and the shark will reform in the shoals,
And the Devil will have a famine and marvel the want of souls.

WILL HE MAKE IT?

Luminaria, a freak newspaper published at Madrid, Spain, is printed with phosphorescent ink, making it possible to read the paper in the dark. Perhaps this is what the United Railways expects us to do if we want to read upon the St. Louis street cars.

Let us hope that Mr. Roosevelt will not get the balloon fever while he is President.

BRAIN WEATHER.

Though few of us have real brain storms,
It is a question whether
The most of us are not, at times,
With cloudy mental weather.

And O, how often do we see
A storm which, had it found us,
Had swept our reason all away,
But haply went around us?

SHADOWS OF A GREAT CITY.

Written for the Post-Dispatch.

THE PITTSBURG MILLIONAIRE.

THE ordinary man who moves to New York isn't struck with anything peculiar about the climate except that it is frequently coagulated with foreign suspended matter which wouldn't be there if it cleaned the streets with brooms and hoes and things instead of an appropriation. But it certainly exerts a most unusual influence on visiting millionaires.

Upon some it has the effect of causing them to put up large stone residences which are suffering from architectural dipsomania—buildings which passing artists come by and take a look at and then fall down in the street and have spinal meningitis. Another is moved to purchase a revolver and look up a rival in business—that is to say, a rival in the only kind of business he's engaged in—and make the other party look like a punched meal ticket on account of a young woman who subsequently announces that she would just dearly love to wear a sweater and live on a ranch. And so she would, reader, so she would—any time she could find a ranch within easy hansoming distance of Forty-second street and Broadway. But if he goes from Pittsburg the ozone of New York nearly always leads him to get married, from time to time.

History usually records that the years of his youth were spent in one of those large smelting works where the smelts come from. Hence the ease with which he becomes a fish when he finally wipes the clinkers of his native vale out of his eyes and gets a good look at the advantages of the metropolis.

He puts in the first half of his life accumulating a large public school family; a semi-detached cottage on the installment plan and a valuable collection of calouses in his hands. He goes from his kitchen to his dining room by walking around the cook stove.

His ideas of recreation are bounded by a can of mingled hops and a few meldings of pinochle on pay night and a picnic on Labor Day once a year. He is well up in Pittsburg table etiquette, which means that you use the knife to eat with and the folk to pick your teeth and to spear the slabs of pork steak and save them from being suffocated under the fried cabbage.

His wife is a stout lady with blunt thumbs and common-sense feet, who inhabits a Mother Hubbard six days a week and wears her hair in a spiral chunk well aft. On Sunday she makes a very superior showing in the popular basque waist, with the beaded wrap and the black bonnet with the purple pheasant on it. She is durable, but not strictly adapted for steamer baskets or show-window displays.

And then some day he wakes up and discovers that he has accumulated a million or two in that mysterious way (which is so easily understood in Pittsburg. Forty-eight hours suffice for him to change his union card for a coat-of-arms and to get ready to move to New York and begin to circulate. The rest is an old story.

He makes the sad discovery that his wife is about a hundred and twenty pounds incompatible for him about the same time that he forms the acquaintance of a little fairy of the chorus whose hair is full of local color. You know the rest.

THE FUNNY PART:

Money never seems to buy anything except trouble for a Pittsburg millionaire.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

From the Chicago News.

Some queer birds roost in family trees.

You can't get the best of some men—they haven't any.

Life is no joke to the chap who is forced to live by his wits.

Success has made a fool of many an otherwise sensible man.

Experience is costly—as many an heiress has discovered by marrying a title.

A pound of candy will go farther with a woman than a ton of argument.

Some women wear combs to hold their hair up and some wear them to hold it on.

Some people are such consistent knockers that they refuse even to ring a door bell.

When a woman takes the conceit out of a man she herself is apt to have a double supply.

THE AUTOMOBILE VERSUS THE HORSE

E. S. Martin in Harper's

WHILE a horse suits our family at present much better than an automobile would suit it, I am going to be tolerant of automobiles, even though they abrade the nerves of our horse when he meets them on the road and make it unsafe for Blandina to drive him. I guess they are just a part of the vis medicatrix naturae; phenomena gradually developed from the disease called city life, and adapted to mitigate its severities. If not cure it. They certainly do help people to get out of cities, and though they may seem to make it somewhat too easy for them to get back, that is not a real defect. Anything that takes city people to the country is a good thing.

FRENCH MISAPPLIED.

From the Travel Magazine.

WE Americans insist on using certain French words instead of our own good English terms, but when we invade France we find the meanings we have attached to these borrowed words to be incorrect. In France a depot is a warehouse for freight; a modiste is a dressmaker, not a milliner; and dessert never means pudding or pie, but wafers with butter or cheese.

A Spiritual Suggestion for Today

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

(This column is open for discussion of public questions. Letters must give name and address of writer and should not exceed 150 words. Names will not be published, if so desired. Suggestions and criticisms concerning the Post-Dispatch are invited.)

A Suggestion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I would suggest to the Council that they compel whoever they confirm to the position of Boiler Inspector and on the Board of Engineers to promise not to publish a book telling young applicants for engineers' licenses how to qualify for examination. Not that I object to their learning all they can from books or otherwise, but I object to the incumbents of these offices profiting by the anxiety of aspirants who naturally think, and with good reason, that their prospects would be greatly enhanced should they buy such a book.

Grand Opera Singers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It seems to me that the people of St. Louis rather attend grand opera to hear a singer who happens to be the rage at the time than in appreciation of good music, such as was rendered at the performance of "Tannhauser" last week. The "critics" were severe on Burgstaller. Burgstaller was proclaimed an ideal Tannhauser by Mme. Cosima Wagner, who certainly knows more about the matter than the average St. Louis critics. I remember that a St. Louis audience went wild over the very mediocre performance of Joseph Sheehan as Lohengrin and Tannhauser. I only wish that the Conreid Opera Company can return next year with Burgstaller or Knote in the title role of Wagner opera.

Dismissed Employes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The summary dismissal of Charles W. Francis as Assistant Health Commissioner, in his old age, after a service in that department of 31 years, without a charge against him and without a moment's notice, seems to me is a distinct shock to the citizens of this community, whom he has so long and faithfully served, and entirely antagonistic to the "boasted policy" of this so-called "business administration," where changes are made only for "the good of the service." Ordinarily a faithful servant, even when the exigencies of politics demands his removal, is given a reasonable notice, and an expression of "good will" from his superior, but in this instance the veteran of 31 years' service is not permitted to even finish out the day.
A FOLLOWER AFAR OFF.

Child Mail Clerk.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I recently read an article in your paper concerning a child 11 years old, who is employed as private secretary to her father, a state representative, drawing a salary from the State amounting to $24.50 a week, and designated on the clerical roster as "mail clerk." Now, this is an ordinary man's salary allowed to a child who does not require it, and who, under the laws of the State, ought to be in school. Did our esteemed Governor overlook this?

Moyer-Haywood Case.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your editorial, "The Moyer-Haywood Campaign" is as rotten as the President's letter. If it was not for these protest meetings, etc., your paper would say nothing. Where was the Post-Dispatch when these men were kidnaped? We need your help, yes, but if you do not tell things at the right time we will use our own papers. We are coming (with daily papers, too). You talk about inciting class war. Can you get away from it? There are two classes—exploited and exploiting. The Labor Unions are on trial. Moyer and Haywood are, like Christ, unpurchasable. Can you say that about editorials? You cannot tickle both classes. We are onto you.
P.-D. READER.

Health Department.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I sat in the hotel at Bismark last evening when your paper came in. There were 14 traveling men from St. Louis and the discussion of Ed Butler controlling the Council and subsequent ratification of Dr. Bond as Health Commissioner came about. Your paper had stated that Dr. Bond, in apparent effort to lift his department out of "graft and political influence" had stated that Butler's influence would cease (that is, for words to that effect) had intimated Butler would not secure exclusive rights for horseshoeing, etc. All were of the opinion that, in a show-down, the Council would decline to confirm Dr. Bond, and all deplored the fact that "clean methods" could not prevail in the management of city affairs, especially the most important of any department. It was a discussion of the effort of a man to handle the duties of his office without being dependent upon "manipulators" who repay henchmen for political work. I notice by this morning's paper that the council refused to ratify Dr. Bond's appointment.
ED CLERK.

THE FUNNY MAN

In the Small Town He Is a Great Character and to Know Him Is to Laugh.

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By George M. Cohan.

EVERY small town has its funny man. As a rule, he's about twenty-three years of age, wears loud neckties, chews gum and whistles at the same time. His father is usually the local millionaire.

A short conversation with the hotel clerk and he will switch from any subject and remark: "Say, we've got a fellow here in town that's a funny cuss, all right," and you naturally inquire who he is, and before you know it you've heard the story of the funny man's life and the clerk has had seventy-odd laughs during his description of how this comedian amuses the natives.

"I was just telling this gentleman about Red Cromwell," said the clerk to the proprietor of the hotel.

At the mention of the name the proprietor burst out laughing, and after removing his spectacles and drying the laugh tears from his eyes, he asked: "What's Red been doin' now?"

"Nothing in particular."

"Who are you talking about?" inquired one of the steady boarders, who had just emerged from the dining-room and strolled toward the desk.

"We was tellin' this here gentleman about Red Cromwell," answered the proprietor.

The steady boarder put his hands on his hips, roared with laughter and fell against the desk, which he finally grabbed to keep from rolling on the floor.

This caused the clerk to lie flat on the register as he yelled with delight. Then the proprietor was once more forced to remove his spectacles and dry the briny from his optics. Two or three others who belonged in town strolled up and, upon discovering the subject of our conversation, joined in the laughfest immediately. In the midst of their hilarity the front door opened, a flat-nosed youth entered, slid to the center of the office, bowed most awkwardly and cried, "Look who's here!"

They all fell to the floor in convulsions. The steady boarder rolled the length of the office with screams of delight. The other members kept getting up and falling down and shouting their glee at the top of their voices.

The funny man who so greatly amused them did two or three dancing steps on the office floor, juggled his hat four or five times, threw the girl behind the cigar counter a couple of kisses and, making a lively dash for the door, he disappeared as quickly as he came.

It was fully five minutes before the "soft audience" got so they could even speak plainly; and finally the clerk, evidently noticing the look of wonderment on my face, whispered to me between giggles: "That was him."

"That was who?" I asked.

"Red Cromwell," and as he spoke the name another roar of laughter broke loose from the crowd.

"Is that a sample of his comedy?" I inquired.

"Yes, he's just full of talent. Doing things like that all the time," said the proprietor, as he fell in a chair near by. "His father's the richest man in town."

LIFE AND WORK OF DR. HODGEN ARE EULOGIZED

Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of Noted Physician's Death Fittingly Observed.

FORMER FRIENDS SPEAK

Memorial Services at Y. M. C. A. Hall Attended by Prominent Persons.

Speakers at the memorial meeting to commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the death of Dr. John T. Hodgen, held under the auspices of the St. Louis Medical Society at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Grand and Franklin avenues, Sunday afternoon, compared the great physician and surgeon—his rise from obscurity and poverty to eminence and fame, the qualities of his heart and mind and his value as a citizen, to Abraham Lincoln, the martyred President.

Many physicians who studied medicine as members of Dr. Hodgen's classes, others who knew him personally and professionally, and still others who knew him only by his contributions to medical and surgical science, attended the meeting. Dr. John C. Morfit, president of the Medical Society, and Dr. Warren B. Outten, chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, presided jointly over the meeting. Other members of the Arrangements Committee were Dr. Charles D. Stevens, secretary; Dr. George Homan, Dr. H. C. Dalton, Dr. Henry C. Fairbrother, Dr. Frank J. Lutz, Dr. A. E. Ewing, Dr. J. B. Shapleigh and Dr. B. M. Hypes.

Before and after the meeting the pupils of Dr. Hodgen discussed among themselves his many virtues, and told anecdotes and stories of his greatness as a physician and surgeon.

Effect of Good Deeds.

A life size oil portrait of Dr. Hodgen occupied a conspicuous place on the stage. The meeting was opened with an invocation by Rev. Dr. Samuel J. Niccolls. Dr. Joseph H. Mathews of Louisville, Ky., former president of the American Medical Society, was the first speaker. He first read a biography of Dr. Mathews, and then discussed him as a national and international figure in medicine.

"As I look over this assembly," said Dr. Mathews, in the course of his remarks," I am forcibly reminded of the quotation of the immortal bard, 'The evil that men do lives after them.' Rather would I say now that a man's good deeds live after him. It depends upon the record of one's life whether our good deeds live after us. Some one has recently advanced the idea that our immortality consists in living, after our bodies are dead, in our children; that posterity inherits the good or evil or both that are in us even to the end of existence, hence the immortality.

"Take it as you please, John T. Hodgen lives today, though dead these many years. It was not the mortal casement that we cared for, though comely it was to look upon. Who will soon forget the iron gray hair, the dark complexion and the black piercing eyes? These were, however, but indications of the spirit within—the thing immortal that lived within its casement of clay while he moved around doing good to and for his fellow man; the same spirit that broods over and lives with us today.

"But what manner of man was this that we should, after a quarter of a century, meet here to do him reverence?

Dr. Hodgen a Master.

"Many of you never looked upon this man's form or clasped his hand. When Stonewall Jackson fell at his post of love and duty, thousands who had never seen him wept tears of grief and sorrow. A master in peace and war had fallen. So we today recognize that a master has fallen. John T. Hodgen has been compared by one of your citizens to John Hunter.

"Much indeed is there that warrants this comparison, but I would liken him also to that quiet, sad, great, immortal genius, Abraham Lincoln, and again to that poverty-born, determined, richly endowed persuasive and honest Daniel Drake. You will permit the allusion that all three, Lincoln, Hodgen and Drake, smacked of Kentucky soil.

"Andrew Carnegie says that poverty is the greatest inheritance that one can have. How beautifully illustrated in these three! Lincoln, splitting logs in the woods of Kentucky to get money enough to go to the common school; Hodgen, working upon a farm of poor soil to do the same, and Drake, at the early age of 6, a helpmeet of both father and mother.

"Is it not a fact that there was something or some condition in that period of time that went to the production of men like these? How conditions have changed, or is it that men have become so imbued with the spirit of the present times as to allow other things to actuate them in lieu of sturdy accomplishments, honest motives and high principles?

Present Methods Condemned.

"Don't think for a moment that I underrate the men of today in our profession, but is it not the fact that this life of vainglory, this greed, this self-aggrandizement, this graft that is stalking through the country, has crept into our profession? Let us call a halt and get our bearings. Does this spirit of self-sacrifice, of public weal, of intense thought and application of honest purposes fill us in our daily life as John Hodgen was filled?"

Later on in his address Dr. Mathews severely criticised the lax methods of preparation for medical practice in vogue at present. He declared that men loomed up as surgeons and specialists who had never touched the garment of scientific truth. They would spend a month or so at New York, visit a hospital occasionally and then announce themselves as wonderful specialists. He declared that the post-graduate schools should put a stop to this slip-shod method of giving certificates so that incompetent physicians could put themselves on dress parade. In the days of Hodgen these methods would not have been tolerated, he said.

He declared that no man ought to be permitted to practice medicine until he was at least 25 years old. It was impossible to acquire the literary and medical education and experience necessary to deal with a human life before that age.

Physicians Should Be Honored.

Dr. Mathews spoke of the statue of Marion Sims in a small, obscure park of New York City, erected by his medical and a few of his other friends. Then he said he went to Washington and saw on nearly every corner and in every public park the stately monuments in marble, bronze and brass to the memory of soldiers, statesmen, sailors and scientists, but not one to a single physician. He thought it was time that men who toiled day and night, and had gone through rain, sleet and snow to visit the sick and dying, should receive some such recognition.

"The General stands in his habiliments of brass and bronze erected at public expense," said Dr. Mathews, "but Marion Sims rests under a simple stone erected by his friends. And yet the minds of Ephriam McDowell, Marion Sims and John T. Hodgen evolved such truths as have saved more lives than were destroyed by the Civil War."

Dr. Mathews suggested that a tablet to the memory of John T. Hodgen ought to be erected in the "Hall of Fame."

Dr. Warren B. Outten, chief surgeon of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, spoke of Dr. Hodgen's educational influence in the Mississippi Valley. He told how the pupils of Dr. Hodgen almost reverenced him and how eagerly they inquired about him while he was living. He said that the influence of Dr. Hodgen upon the medical profession in the West was marked, and that any statement he made attracted immediate attention.

Knocks Christian Science.

Dr. Charles H. Wallace of St. Joseph, president of the Missouri State Medical Association, during the course of an address on the "Debt of Missouri to His Example and Memory," made a vigorous attack on Christian Science and declared that it was the delusion of the Twentieth Century. Dr. Wallace was speaking of the great benefit that Hodgen had been to the human race by his great skill and learning.

"I cannot refrain from contrasting with him that other leader of a new faith," said Dr. Wallace. "I refer to Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy. At the feet of this goddess of a new faith worships an ignorant multitude. I look back at the suffering, at the vacant chairs around the firesides of the cohorts that follow her, and think of the empty trundle beds that have been caused by following blindly this leader of the new faith. This is the delusion of the twentieth century that stalks abroad in the land in the name of Christian Science. It belongs to the age of darkness and superstition. It is a faith that holds out a hope to the weary invalid that vanishes like the mirage on the desert.

"What a difference between this new leader and John T. Hodgen! He was the genius of the profession which reaches forward its skillful hands and fans back to the blue the flickering embers of the life that is passing. Hodgen is entitled to the praise of the medical profession which stretches forth its great arm and stops the ravages of plague and disease. He was truly one of the great men of his age."

In speaking of Dr. Hodgen's worth as a citizen Attorney Charles Nagel made a masterly address. He said that it was rare that such forces of mind and fundamental principles of character were united in one man. He said that ordinarily a man's features proclaim his avocation.

Was a Universal Man.

"Recalling his countenance," Mr. Nagel said, "no man could tell by it what language he spoke. He was a universal man, not too great for any profession, but great enough for any to make it redound to the benefit of the human race. He might have been a teacher, lawyer, inventor or a statesman—in a sense he was all of these.

"With him to adopt one profession meant the adoption of them all. I recall that on the witness stand he was a monument to the fundamental rules of justice, wholesome in restraint on too eager counsel, and an aid to the Court and jury in reaching a just verdict. Every other profession felt the loss of Dr. Hodgen when he died. He knew but one profession, and to him all others were tributary or subordinate.

"John T. Hodgen was essentially an American citizen. In these days we seem to feel that we need things rather than to do things. It was not so with Hodgen. His practice and influence came to him by reason of what he had done. In everything he did there was the all-pervading influence of the citizen and the man.

"He and Lincoln were born in almost the same spot. This must have been well-nigh hallowed ground to send forth two such men to give hope, truth and inspiration to self-government. Each attained great eminence in his particular sphere, and yet continued to be one of the great mass of American people."

Was Beloved by His Pupils.

Dr. Henry C. Fairbrother of East St. Louis, who spoke of his power and influence over his classes, referred to Dr. Hodgen as the George Washington of the medical profession. His portrait, Dr. Fairbrother said, more than that of any other man, has a place in the offices of physicians. Dr. Fairbrother described his work as a teacher, the interest he took in every student and the reverence they had for him. He said that every body in Dr. Hodgen's classes carried a knife exactly like the one used by their preceptor if they had the money to buy it.

Dr. Le Grand Atwood of Ferguson, Mo., who was introduced as the nestor of the medical profession, discussed the student and social life of Dr. Hodgen and told many interesting stories in connection with his life. Dr. Atwood, who was the roommate of Dr. Hodgen in his student days, said that he had disobeyed the advice of his own physician to attend the meeting, but relying upon his own knowledge of his strength and condition, had come out to pay his tribute of respect to the great surgeon.

Dr. Atwood said he knew Dr. Hodgen perhaps better than any other man. He remembered when the two, as boys together, matriculated in the medical department of the Missouri University in 1847. He said that Hodgen was the pride of his class.

"I believe that he was a favorite of nature," said Dr. Atwood. "In all my long experience I have never met another man who combined such splendid qualities. I believe that nature endowed him at birth with the qualities that stamped him as a man of greatness. He was a physical giant. There was none who could beat him running, jumping, putting the weight or at any sport. There was no man strong enough to throw him. His mind was broad, deep and capacious, and as to his moral character, there was no breath of suspicion against it. He exhibited all of the virtues and excellencies of life that go to make up the real man."

Was Valuable to Humanity.

Dr. Atwood said that Hodgen barely escaped being a minister, but fortunately for St. Louis, Missouri, and the entire world, finally decided to study and practice medicine. He recalled Dr. Hodgen's first lecture, after he had been made demonstrator of anatomy in the university, and said that it was instructive and explicit to the last degree. In speaking of Dr. Hodgen's attentions to his wife Dr. Atwood said that it was his custom on leaving each morning for his work to caress her and lay a $10 bill by the side of her plate.

In his earlier days, however, Dr. Atwood said that Dr. Hodgen had to face the direst poverty. After Dr. Hodgen had been made demonstrator of anatomy he tendered his resignation because, he said, he could not make a living for himself and wife. He had made up his mind to go to the country to practice.

It was then, Dr. Atwood said, that Dr. Frazier offered to take Hodgen in as a partner and give him, the first year, one-third the receipts, and the next year, one-half. The first year, under this arrangement, the two physicians collected $13,000, of which Dr. Hodgen got one-third. After that their practice greatly increased and Dr. Hodgen rose to affluence.

"His death was the saddest blow St. Louis ever received," said Dr. Atwood. "He was indeed the leading citizen, and his place has never since been filled. He was the noblest and best of men, and I shall cherish his memory as long as my memory serves me."

Dr. C. D. Stevens, secretary of the Committee on Arrangements, read letters from many physicians who were invited to attend, but could not be there. The memorial addresses will be published and distributed among the physicians and friends of Dr. Hodgen.

Sunday was the twenty-fifth anniversary of Dr. Hodgen's death. He was 57 years old when he died. He was born in Hodgenville, Ky., moved with his parents to Pittsfield, Ill., and in his twentieth year entered the Medical Department of the Missouri University. He graduated in 1848, and practiced in St. Louis until his death. He atained great eminence as a physician and surgeon, was president of the American Medical Association in 1880, and at the time of his death was regarded as the first citizen of the city. He made many valuable discoveries and contributions to medical science and literature.

HAWLEY'S BALLOON WAS A SURPRISE TO ILLINOIS FARMERS

Aeronaut Says His Appearance Caused Excitement Along the Route of His Flight—Cattle Scattered in the Field Where He Landed—Spectators Offered Assistance.

ALAN R. HAWLEY, who is qualifying to pilot a balloon in the races next October, has become a student of psychology. The effect of a balloon on rural residents who see one for the first time is incalculable and sometimes remarkable, and Mr. Hawley had an opportunity to observe some of its phases when the "Orient" carried him Saturday from the gas plant at Main and Rutger streets 60 miles to a farm near Carrollton, Ill.

The balloon began a gradual descent at about 3:30 p. m., from a point 6000 feet in the air, and at 4 p. m. was pretty close to the farm lands over which it was passing. It was making speed before a good breeze, and traveled about fifteen miles an hour.

"It's wonderful how hospitable those farmers are," Mr. Hawley said with a reminiscent smile. "Most of them yelled at me, 'Come down—come down and let us see you.' I yelled back that I couldn't very well at that particular time.

"As I neared the ground the drag rope caught in a barbed wire fence. The posts were rotten and I took part of the fence along with me. I threw out about a sack and a half of ballast to clear some trees in the way, was lifted easily over them, and come down into a field.

"There was a herd of cattle in the field. It scattered in very direction when I approached. I never saw a more excited lot of animals. I pulled the rip cord and the balloon collapsed. The cattle apparently were not so much frightened after it became still, and they circled about inquiringly.

Wanted to See Him Leap.

"A lot of men ran in from surrounding fields. It was then about 4:30 o'clock. One of them asked me if I had a parachute and why I didn't jump. He seemed to think he hadn't quite got his money's worth. I told him I was in training for the parachute leap, but had not mastered it.

"They were all very curious and very willing to help me in any way they could. One of them told me that a rope of the balloon dragged over a house I was passing and that when a woman in the house heard it and ran to a window she fainted at sight of the balloon. I suppose it is enough to frighten a person who sees one for the first time.

"A fellow on horseback galloped along a country lane just before I landed, apparently trying to overtake me. It looked as though he was trying to catch the guide line, and I was nervous for fear he would succeed. If he had caught the rope he would have been the most surprised man in the world. There's no telling what would have happened, but whatever it was it would have been unpleasant for him."

In making the start at 2:30 p. m. the "Orient" caught on an electric wire. Mr. Hawley did not know whether or not the wire was "live," and he says he had visions of a French aeronaut killed in just that way. The balloon swayed from side to side, and finally freed itself, listing drunkenly first one way and then another as long as the spectators at the gas plant could watch its ascent. Mr. Hawley says it was 15 minutes before his nerves regained their tone. It was his first ascent in a balloon alone, but his seventh in all. He must make ten before he is eligible to compete in the fall races.

EAST ST. LOUISAN WINS DRUG HONORS.

THOMAS PERCY KNOEBEL of 200 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, has been awarded the alumni gold medal for scholarship, the highest honor for a garduate of the St. Louis College of Pharmacy in the class that will be graduated Wednesday night. He was honor man of the junior class last year.

Knoebel is a son of Thomas Knoebel, who has gained considerable fame among pharmacists for his ethical ideas and practices.

The graduating exercises will be held in Memorial Hall, Nineteenth and Locust streets, Wednesday at 8 p. m. Dr. John C. Morfit, president of the St. Louis Medical Society, will deliver the address and Edward Mallinckrodt, president of the college, will confer the degrees upon 55 members of the class.

ST. LOUIS AS ART CENTER.

Title Involved at Women's Clubs' Convention.

St. Louis' title as art center of the Southwest promises to develop a contest at the biennial convention of women's clubs at Joplin.

St. Louis delegates, who will depart for the convention on a special car Monday evening, desire that Mrs. Thos. E. Ferguson be appointed charman of the Art Committee, asserting that St. Louis is logically entitled to the place. Springfield, it is said, will insist on the appointment of the present incumbent, Mrs. A. L. Moist.

It is expected that Mrs. W. K. James will be re-elected State president. If she should decline to serve, the St. Louis woman will ask for the election of Mrs. George J. Frankel, the present State treasurer.

These will attend the convention from St. Louis: Mrs. Philip N. Moore, first vice-president of the General Federation; Mrs. George J. Frankel, president of the Eighth District and treasurer of the State Federation; Mmes. J. B. Dobyne, Thomas E. Ferguson and F. H. Ingalls of the Twentieth Century Art Club; Mmes. Robert Atkinson, C. L. Hilleary, John Thompson, J. H. Hoskens and H. McFarland of the Wednesday Club; Mmes. Louis Schoenfield and F. H. Niehaus of the Clotho Club; Mmes. Holton and Bartlett Adams of the Webster Groves Monday Club; Mrs. W. A. Sisson of the Kirkwood Fortnightly Club; Mmes. Evans and Blow of the Carondelet Club and Mrs. Clyde Schock of the Congenial Circle.

AXES WILL CLEAR DOWNTOWN WIRES

Use of Overhead Cables Ceases With Western Union Office Removal.

HAS BURIED 1750 MILES

Real "Underground District" Now Established for the First Time.

The end of overhead wires in the "underground district" of downtown St. Louis came at 12:01 a. m. Monday, when the Western Union Telegraph Co. stopped sending messages over its pole system and began flashing the Morse code through its completed conduits beneath the streets.

The unsightly aspect of the old overhead system will begin to disappear within the next two days, the Western Union having notified the Supervisor of City Lighting that the ax will start its harvest of telegraph wires and poles. The choppers will probably start close to the old quarters of the telegraph corporation, on Pine street, near Fourth.

Installation of the operating offices of the telegraph company in the new quarters in the Commercial Building last Saturday created an actual underground district, giving St. Louis freedom from overhead wires between and including the shore of the river to and including Twenty-second street, and Wash to Spruce streets, inclusive. The last burial of wires caused the Western Union to put out of sight 1750 miles of metalic cables.

The only exceptions to this burial are the trolley wires and district telegraph and call-box wires. These wires are exempt, as it has been held by the street car companies that no system has been invented which makes it possible to run its cars on an underground wire. Such a system, however, is in use on Broadway, New York. The other wires are exempted for the reason that they are not strung on poles, but are carried over the roofs of buildings and convey only a low-tension current.

Freer Than Other Cities.

When the Western Union shall have completed the work of chopping down its poles, St. Louis will be freer of overhead wires than any other municipality in the country. It is not necessary to obtain an order requiring the company to remove the poles, as this work is mandatory under the regulations attending the underground district.

The fight to put the wires underground in St. Louis began in 1890. President O'Reilly of the Board of Public Improvements was then Supervisor of City Lighting. At that time the vicinity of the Western Union's old quarters on Pine street was overshadowed by the greatest mass of overhead wires in the city.

No ordinance compelling burial of the wires could be put through the Municipal Assembly until 1896, the year of the cyclone, when imense damage, resulting from the falling of wires carrying high voltage, demonstrated the danger of wires strung overhead. There was such a demand for removal of the wires that an ordinance was passed by the Assembly. Since that event the telegraph, telephone and electric light corporations have been removing their overhead systems. The Western Union is the last of the great public service corporations to comply with this law.

PLAYED FOR CIGARS, FINED.

Detective McMullen Tells Judge Tracy Poker Lore.

Judge Tracy and Detective McMullen engaged in a lively bit of repartee regarding the game of poker in the City Hall Police Court Monday. McMullen took the witness stand to testify against six men arrested Saturday night in a room at 213 North Twelfth street. The men told him, he said, that they were playing for cigars.

"The ante man put up five chips," he said, "and the others ran."

"What do you mean by that?" asked the Judge. "Do you mean they left the room?"

"They couldn't meet the raise; they backed down," explained the detective.

"You mean they threw down their cards," qualified the Judge. "Then what happened?"

"Then the ante man raked in the chips."

"You mean he won?"

"Yes, sir, he copped the coin."

"The others didn't see him?" asked the Judge.

"No, the ante man took the pot."

"Who opened the pot?" asked Attorney Sidener.

"I didn't say that anybody opened the pot," said the detective. "This wasn't a jackpot game."

"You seem to know," said the Judge. "it's as much an offense to play for cigars as for $1000. The defendants are fined $10 each."

The men were William B. Young, 1010 Market street; William Stone, Merchants' Hotel; Isidor Falkoff, 907 North Fourteenth street; William Harris, 2640 Washington avenue; Henry Newman, 213 North Twelfth street, and Ben Jones, Merchants' Hotel.

BOGUS SERVANT ARRESTED.

Woman Admits Committing Thefts in West End Homes.

Bertha Miller, alias Bertha Nordman, and also admitting the aliases of Piper, Nelson and Halloway, is a prisoner at the Four Courts, charged with pretending to go to work for West End residents as a domestic and after spending a few hours in the houses, going out on a plea of illness and taking with her silverware, money and clothing. She admits the thefts, saying her rent was due and that she stole to get money to pay it.

Complaints have been made against her by Mrs. Nell McAuliffe of 1265 Hamilton avenue, Mrs. Milton Seropyan, wife of the Syrian Consul, of 1224 Hamilton avenue, and Mrs. Thomas Armstead of 5423 Bartmer avenue. Charles Nordman of 5123 Easton avenue was arrested on a charge of receiving stolen goods. He pawned a part of Mrs. McAuliffe's property. The prisoners were arrested at a saloon on Easton avenue in the county, Saturday night.

RESOLUTIONS TOO STRONG FOR UNION

Central Body Orders Denunciation of Roosevelt Toned Down by Committee.

PATTERNMAKERS' VIGOR

Legislative Chairman Insists on Respect for Office If Not for Man.

The St. Louis Central Trades and Labor Union will voice its sentiments on the reported declaration of President Roosevelt, that Moyer and Haywood, members of the Western Federation of Miners, held at Boise, Idaho, for trial for alleged complicity in the murder of former Gov. Steunenberg are "undesirable citizens," at a meeting Saturday night.

An attempt was made at the meeting Sunday afternoon to have the central body indorse resolutions from the Pattern Makers' Union, which bristled with denunciation of the President, but they were referred to a special committee which was given instructions to "revise" them and report resolutions more "conservative."

This was on motion of James Conrey, chairman of the Legislative Committee, who declared the resolutions too strong, and that no matter what the personal feelings of the delegates might be toward the President it was their duty as American citizens to respect the office of Chief Magistrate of the Republic.

President Miller named this committee: James Conroy, Phil Hofher, Percy Pepoon, J. Canfield and Eugene Sarber.

A meeting of Socialists Sunday night at Delabar's Hall adopted a letter to be sent to President Roosevelt and spread broadcast. In the letter the President is called a "rough rider that did not ride," a "ward worker" and a few other things. He is also informed that should the immortal Lincoln hear him make such a statement as that purporting to come from him regarding the Western men he would blush with shame.

St. Louis trade unionists have been asked to arrange for the entertainment of a party of Russian trade unionists now in this country and who will visit St. Louis shortly.

SCHMITZ ASKS IMMUNITY.

Mayor's Offer Under Consideration by Graft Prosecutor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—The latest candidate for immunity is the Mayor of the city, Eugene E. Schmitz. Through a trusted representative the Mayor has written the last few days a proposal to the graft prosecutor which is now under consideration. The Mayor's proposition may be accepted at any moment, but last night Rudolph Spreckels and Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney said they were against giving the indicted Mayor the immunity that he craves.

Heney was somewhat evasive in his answer to a direct question as to whether he would extend immunity to the Mayor. He said: "I will tell no one whether immunity will be granted to Mayor Schmitz except the Mayor himself. In my position as prosecutor I cannot do otherwise."

A complete confession from Mayor Schmitz would undoubtedly involve some of those "higher up" whom the graft prosecutors are anxious to bring to the bar of justice.

HOUSE PLANS TO PASS UTILITIES BILL TUESDAY

Democratic Leaders Trying to Swing City Members for Cooper Act.

LOBBY ASKS COMPROMISE

Party Success Depends on Passage of Enabling Act, Say Friends.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 29.—If the program mapped out by the Democratic leaders is carried out at tonight's caucus of the House members, the Cooper rate regulation act will be adopted by the House of Representatives tomorrow. The corporations are still fighting desperately, but they have been crowded to the ropes and are now pleading compromise. With $250,000,000 capital behind them, they have not yet given up hope that they can whip timid legislators into line.

After realizing the futility of getting through a bill providing for a State commission to establish rates, the corporations demanded an elaborate court review clause that would tie up a rate reduction ordinance in endless litigation. But they were forced to abandon the sort of court review suggested and now they are insisting that the municipal assemblies appoint a commission to determine what rate shall be fixed by the Assembly. In support of this commission idea the lobby advances the argument that the municipal assemblies are wholly incompetent to determine what is a reasonable and what an unreasonable rate.

It is pointed out that the Legislature can answer this question without seeking to look further than the regular session. There was no commission appointed by the General Assembly to determine whether it was just for the railroads to make a reduction in freight and passenger rates approximating about 30 per cent.

Party Success at Stake.

On freight business alone the maximum freight rate law will cost the railroads about $2,000,000 a year. Their losses on passenger business is estimated at $1,000,000. How was this cut-rate determined? It was not the outgrowth of a commission's investigation, but rather the figures gathered by the various committees having these bills in charge, which showed the earnings of the companies, the amount of their capital, their watered stock and inflated bonds, and it was all so simple that the legislators had no difficulty arriving at a definite conclusions as to what should be the future maximum freight and passenger charges on railroads in this State.

The telephone companies say: "We are ruled by competition. The Legislature has business to say what we shall charge." But to this answer is made that there are six railroad systems in Missouri in direct competition on business between St. Louis and Kansas City and only two telephone lines.

Democrats feel that the enabling act—a genuine enabling act—must be passed or the extra session will cost their party the loss of Missouri in the next general election. With defeat in the State they would sacrifice a Governor and United States Senator. For this reason they are now endeavoring to convince the St. Louis and Kansas City members that the $100,000 extra session must bring the big corporations into subjection or the party in the rural districts as well as in the cities will be ruined.

The Republicans are looking on complacently, but they are not worrying. They make it appear that this is a Democratic scrap, although it is believed a majority of them will fall into line when the rollcall is taken. A majority of the St. Louis delegation appears to be manifesting more interest in the cause of the breweries and distilleries who are affected by pending legislation than they are in the proposition to assure St. Louis cheaper gas, cheaper electricity, cheaper telephone service, cheaper heat and cheaper telephones.

The Democratic members, Maroney, McDermott and Lucks, have turned a deaf ear to the appeals of their Democratic brethren. They voted against the enabling act before and are threatening to do so again. Maroney is an ex-saloon keeper, who had his license revoked for violation of the dramshop laws. McDermott is an ex-employe of a St. Louis brewery and Lucks operates a thirst-quenching parlor at Twenty-second and Division streets. This trio is opposing dramshop legislation and yet in the face of their efforts to obtain a modified excise bill or a bill that will not cause further trouble for the liquor interests they are antagonizing Gov. Folk and his administration by assuming an attitude of bitter hostility to all that his administration is standing for at the extra session.

On the Republican side, Representatives Zepp, Linck, and Miller, who are identified with St. Louis liquor interests, have also taken a stand against the enabling act.

These St. Louis members have positively declared for the Cooper bill in its present form—Haller, Willard Droste and Schueddig.

Among the St. Louisans captured by the corporations is Representative Frankie Warner of St. Louis. Warner is frank in saying that he does not believe the corporations ought to be placed in a position where they might get hurt by an unreasonable Municipal Assembly. Yet Warner's brother, Fred, is chairman of the Committee on Public Improvements in the House of Delegates and is regarded as one of the most important factors in that body at the present time. But Warner refuses to trust his brother or his brother's associates on this proposition.

Representative Orestes Philips, one of the few law graduates in the St. Louis delegation, seems to be against the enabling act on general principles. He expressed himself in favor of it at the regular session up to the time he was about to cast his vote and then he voted no. Unless the St. Louis delegation "gets right," as the country members say, on this proposition, there is apt to be retaliation and the sort of retaliation that the brewers and distillers won't like a all. While the breweries claim they have sent no lobby to Jefferson City, their acknowledged friends here have formed a practical alliance with the telephone and street car lobby, the fellow-servant lobby and the railroad lobby.

"We want the breweries to keep their hands out of this fight or they are going to get into serious trouble," said a well-known Democratic Senator to the Post-Dispatch correspondent.

"We are tired of the breweries crying out for protection when their henchmen here are seemingly doing all in their power to handicap the State administration on the public utilities bill. That game won't work. The sooner the brewers and their friends, the distillers, come to understand this the better it will be for all concerned."

OLD ST. LOUIS IN A LAW SUIT

Will of Former Mayor Johnson Read in Trial Over Market Street Land.

A glimpse of old St. Louis was revealed in Judge Shields' court when the last will and testament of the late Col. John W. Johnson, one time Mayor of the city, was introduced as evidence in an ejectment suit of Mary Glenn against Louis A. Cella and the Southern Real Estate and Title Co., involving title to the property at 609 Market street.

Col. Johnson died in the early fifties. The structure that still stands on the Market street premises was his residence. The neighborhood was, in that day, the fashionable residence district of the city and the Johnsons had moved there because the Mayor's wife considered their former home on Elm street "too lonesome."

Besides disposing of a large amount of real estate on Market street and Broadway the will also disposes of stock in a Maryland turnpike company, silver plate, heirlooms and slaves. Of his slaves the testator says.

"My poor servants, how shall I provide for them? Those I now own have been good servants, and I have treated them with the kindness of a parent. Therefore will I manumit them all in the following manner: Those over 27 years shall be free at my death, and all the rest as they arrive to that age after my death shall be free."

He then names the persons whom the slaves shall serve, during their period in bonds and also names the slaves involved in this decision of the testator. The removal of any of them from St. Louis without their full consent shall operate to free them, the will says.

James M. Carpenter, who has been in the real estate business in St. Louis since 1851, qualified as an expert in real estate values of the year 1854. He testified that the Johnson property at 609 Market street was worth $100 a front foot then. It is now worth about twenty times that much.

Testimony in the case was closed Monday morning and will be argued Thursday.

MILLIONAIRE WEDS NURSE.

Girl Nursed Him Through Siege of Typhoid Fever.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EAGLE GROVE, Io., April 29.—Social circles were thunderstruck today when J. Fitzmaurice, the millionaire bachelor banker, introduced a wife in the person of a poor hospital nurse, formerly named Nellie E. Ferguson, and who had been connected with a hospital at Webster City.

Fitzmaurice explained to his friends today that he never knew what it was to love a woman until the poor nurse-girl by his side brought him out of the fires of a long siege of typhoid fever. He bluntly told his astonished friends that if they "did not like the match they could lump it."

HAYWOOD'S LAWYER FEARS PREJUDICE

Admit Polling County to Learn Sentiment—May Ask for Change of Venue.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOISE, Idaho, April 29. — There is every indication that the defense in the Haywood case will, when the trial opens on May 9, move for a change of venue on the ground of prejudice. Neither C. S. Darrow nor J. F. Nugent would discuss the plans of the defense in any particular, saying that these were not settled and would not be until after consultation with E. F. Richardson, chief counsel, who has just arrived here. The defense attorneys make no secret of the fact that they have men in their employ in every precinct of Ada County for the purpose of polling the residents to learn what the sentiment is generally concerning the coming trials. They have reported that they have gained information that prejudice does exist and that they will have affidavits to present to that effect.

If a motion is now made to remove the case from Ada to some other county it would seem probable that the motion would be overruled on the send off, but, after an attempt has been made to empanel a jury and it is then discovered that it will be a hard matter to find a complete jury, composed of men unbiased and unprejudiced towards the defendants, it is, of course, certain that a renewal of the motion for a change of venue would be entertained by the Court.

Mrs. Haywood, the invalid wife of the man who will be tried first, with her two children arrived last night and will attend the trial of her husband. Mrs. Haywood has been practically bedridden for years, but stood the trip bravely. She will see her husband today for the first time since he was arrested, over a year ago.

STROMBALI VOLCANO ACTIVE.

Peasants Flee From Their Homes in Terror.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MESSINA, April 29.—The Stromboli volcano is again in active eruption and peasants in the vicinity are fleeing from their homes in terror. An explosion so strong that the concussion broke a window was felt here today. The extent of the eruption is not known here, as the cable line with the Lipari Islands is interrupted. The only news received here has been by signals.

Frequent earthquake shocks have been reported in Calabria. The populace of Southern Italy is fearful lest there be a repetition of the disaster of 1905.

The royal observatory on Mount Etna registers an extraordinary eruption. The volcano is throwing out large quantities of ashes and cinders, which are damaging vineyards both in Sicily and Calabria.

PAWNEE BILL HAS A LITTLE INDIAN "SON"

Showman, as Guardian, Cares for Teddy Bear in His Own Household—Plans to Give Orphan Boy a College Education and Then Business Career in One of His Enterprises.

Teddy Bear, 5 years old, is the pet and pride of the Pawnee Bill Historic Wild West and Far East show, which will be under canvas at Handlan's Park for eight days, beginning next Sunday, May 5. The youngster is a full-blooded Sioux Indian, whose mother died a few hours after he opened his wondering eyes and who became an orphan a year later. A vicious horse trampled his father to death.

Pawnee Bill became the guardian of the little fellow soon afterward. The showman was visiting the Rosebud Reservation in South Dakota when he learned the story of little Teddy Bear. The squaw who had the boy in charge was glad to be relieved of him and he became a member of the Pawnee household. He has firmly established himself in the affections of the childless custodian and his wife.

Little Teddy Bear spends the summer season with the big amusement institution, wandering from city to city. His winters are passed in Pawnee, O. T., which his guardian founded. He is mastering the English language under the tuition of Miss May Lillie, a former New England school teacher, whom "show" life has attracted.

The transition of the boy into an effete type of civilization is watched with curious interest by the Indian warriors of the organization, who do not approve of the proceeding and who lure him to their wigwams for remonstrance whenever opportunity presents itself. His faith remains staunch, however, in his white guardian. Pawnee Bill has planned a college course for Teddy Bear and a subsequent business career in one of the commercial enterprises in which he is interested.

AGED MILLIONAIRE ILL.

Col. Charles McGhee Is Richest Man in Tennessee.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 29.—Col. Charles M. McGhee, the aged multi-millionaire of this city, is dying at his home in this city from an attack of pneumonia. Reports from his bedside are that he may not live through the day. He was kept alive Sunday through the use of powerful stimulants.

Col. McGhee is more than 80 years of age and is easily the wealthiest man in Tennessee. He is the grandfather of Mrs. Hart McGhee, formerly Mrs. Hugh Tevis, who was Cornelia Baxter, daughter of Gov. Baxter of Colorado. Col. McGhee has been in feeble health for several years and suffered an attack of pneumonia only this week.

Rand Burial in South.

Edgar E. Rand, secretary of the Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co., died suddenly at 9:45 a. m. Sunday from pneumonia, after an illness of only four days. Mr. Rand had been complaining of poor health for two weeks, and had arranged his business affairs so that he might go to French Lick Springs, Ind., to recuperate. On the day that he was to have left St. Louis he was taken with a severe chill, and never again left his bed. Up to a late hour Saturday night his physicians thought he had an even chance to recover.

Mr. Rand was 38 years old. He was a member of the Mercantile, St. Louis and Glen Echo clubs, and vice-president of the Horse Show Association. He was an aide on Gov. Folk's staff, and had the rank of Colonel.

The body was placed on a train for Holly Springs Sunday night and arrangements were made to hold the funeral Monday afternoon.

"BACK!" HE CRIES TO PARK SALOONS

Mulvihill, Aroused by Cottage Bill, Declares for 600-Foot Limit.

Councilman Lesser's bill, sanctioning the sale of liquor at the Cottage in Forest Park, has developed an opposition that may result not only in closing the Cottage, but more than 200 other saloons situated near public parks. This is the latest word of Excise Commissioner Mulvihill.

As authority he points to the statute of 1889, which provided that no saloon may be established within 600 feet of a park. If he decided that the statute was regularly passed, the order for the closing of the saloons will go into effect July 3 next.

The Municipal Assembly at the last session passed an ordinance forbidding saloons to approach within 400 feet of a park. This ordinance is held to conflict with the State law, and may be declared invalid.

The effect of the new order will be to move back the bar at Forest Park Highlands, which adjoins Forest Park. Saloons near other parks will suffer a like fate.

The bar at West End Heights is outside the city limits, but within 600 feet of Forest Park. If the State law is found by Mr. Mulvihill to be valid he will ask legal advice as to his action in regard to this place.

The order will not affect saloons near the City Hall, Mr. Mulvihill says, since the City Hall lawn is not, properly speaking, a park. He considers that this designation of it arose from the fact that the site was the old Washington Park.

Superintendent Blair of the Missouri Anti-Saloon League has protests pending against two saloons on Arsenal street and others within 600 feet of parks, under the statute of 1889. He says that the league intends to put the statute into effect all over the State, and expects to close 1000. Owing to the fact that the statute is in the section devoted to parks, it escaped general notice, Mr. Blair said, and he thinks this is one reason it has not been enforced.

May Go Out With Other Men.

Charles L. Friedrich, a contractor and architect, who lives at 5123 Wells avenue, testified in Judge Allen's court Monday in his suit for divorce from Lillian Friedrich, that he left her March 15, after finding her at a skating rink with another man. Mrs. Jackson, a sister-in-law of Frederich, testified that she was at the Feirdrich home once when Robert Ball called, and that she saw him embrace Mrs. Friedrich. She said Mrs. Friedrich frequently went out to entertainments with other men than her husband.

"I will say here," Judge Allen interrupted, "that testimony that Mrs. Friedrich attended amusements with other men will not be sufficient ground for divorce. There are many entirely respectable women in St. Louis who accept such attentions from other men than their husbands."

PACKERS' TRUST LOSES CASE IN HIGHER COURT

Judgment of Tribunal for Western District of Missouri Is Affirmed.

CHARGED WITH REBATING

Wicked Intent Not Essential to Conviction, Court of Appeals Holds.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 29.—Judge Sanborn today filed the opinion of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which he had written, affirming the judgments of the United States District Court for the Western District of Missouri, against certain packing companies for accepting concessions of 12 cents per hundred pounds from the portion of the established rate for the transportation of provisions on through bills of lading from Kansas City to Christiania and other points in foreign countries. Judges Hook and Adams concur in the opinion.

The defendants in the cases involved in the decision are the Armour Packing Co., Swift & Co., Morris & Co., and the Cudahy Packing Co.

These cases are the first of the so-called rebate cases brought in the United States against the packers, which were determined by the Appellate Court, and they will form the basis for future action until the Supreme Court reviews the decision. The substance of the conclusions reached by the Court is as follows:

1. That the giving or receiving of a rebate or concession whereby property in interstate or foreign commerce is transported at a less rate than that legally filed and published, is a violation of the Elkins act, and is a continuous crime adjudicable in any court of the United States having jurisdiction of crimes through whose district the transportation is conducted.

Rates Must Be Published.

2. The rates of transportation from places in the United States to ports of transshipment and from ports of entry to place in the United States of property in foreign commerce, carried under through bills of lading, are required to be filed and published by the amended interstate commerce act of 1887. If carried under an aggregate through rate, which is the sum of the ocean rate and the rate from or to a place in the United States to or from the port of transshipment or of entry, the latter rate is required to be filed and published. If carried under a joint through rate by virtue of a common control, management or arrangement of the inland and ocean carriers, the joint rate is required to be filled and published.

3. The giving or receiving of the rebate or concession whereby property in interstate or foreign commerce is transported at less than the established rate, is the essence of the offense pertinently denounced by the Elkins act. The "device" by which the concession or transportation is brought about is not an essential element of the crime and it is unnecessary to plead it in the indictment. The meaning of the clause, "By any device whatever," in the Elkins act is, directly or indirectly, in any way whatever.

4. A contract between a carrier and a shipper to transport the latter's goods in Interstate or foreign commerce at the then established rate for a definite time is ineffective after a higher rate has been filed and published as required by law. The time during which a rate different from the agreed rate is established by filing and publishing is excepted from the term of such contract by virtue of the national acts to regulate commerce which are a part thereof. Such a contract constitutes no defense to a charge of giving or receiving a rebate or concession from the filed and published rate.

5. The only criminal intent requisite to a conviction of an offense created by statute which is not malum in se is the purpose to do the act in violation of the statute. No moral turpitude or wicked intent is essential to a conviction of such a crime.

LABOR DELEGATES PRAISE ROOSEVELT

Central Federated Unions About Evenly Divided on President's Action.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 29.—There was great surprise at the Central Federated Union yesterday when the delegates, instead of unanimously condemning President Roosevelt for his action in the Moyer-Haywood matter, as was expected, stood about evenly divided on the question which has stirred labor organization all over the country.

Mr. Roosevelt was denounced as unworthy to hold his great office, but the denunciators heard him praised as being the best President the country has ever had. Mr. Roosevelt's record as to his attitude toward labor, from the time he was a New York assemblyman until he became President, was brought into the light and the delegates found it all rig....

The discussion, which lasted more than three hours, was the most bitter one ever heard in the University Settlement Building, where the meeting was held. The upshot was that the meeting, representing more than 100,000 workers in Manhattan, ordered that the committee of three appointed at last Sunday's meeting, do what it was instructed to do—that is, go to Washington and have a heart-to-heart talk on the situation with President Roosevelt.

Committee Denounced.

The committee consisted of Delegates Abrahams, Brown and Fry. They were denounced by those who spoke in praise of the President and by the Socialists, the latter, while upbraiding the President in one breath, in the next scored the committee for not obeying instructions, which were to have a personal talk with Mr. Roosevelt.

The members of the committee who were present sought refuge in the plea that it would have been a useless trip, for the President on Wednesday last had written the second letter in which he had reiterated his declaration that Moyer and Haywood as well as Eugene V. Debs, were undesirable citizens. They said, also, that they had endeavored to make an appointment to visit the President through Secretary Loeb, by telegraph, and they had been turned down.

But the excuse did not go with the delegates. The committeemen had been appointed to perform a certain duty and they had not done it. By unanimous vote they must go this week and get a statement from the President as to his true feelings toward organized labor.

E. St. Louis News

County Superintendent of Schools H. G. Hertel will decide the appeal in the Alta Sita School annexation question at a meeting to be held Wednesday at 7 p. m. at the Alta Sita School. The residents of the Alta Sita district petitioned the school trustees to detach part of the district and annex it to the East St. Louis district. This was done at the April meeting of the Board of Trustees and an appeal was taken to the County Superintendent. It was not expected that the appeal would be heard for three or four weeks, but the recent dissensions in the Alta Sita School Board caused Mr. Hertel to announce that he would hear the appeal Wednesday.

Fire did $700 damage to the building and stock of W. H. Hooper at Tenth and State streets Sunday afternoon. Hooper is a painter and decorator, and carried a large stock, which was ruined. Metzger & Co., monument workers, suffered damage o their stock by smoke and water.

The Alta Sitas defeated the White Seals at Alta Sita Park Sunday, by a score of 2 to 1. The game was a pitchers' battle between "Wee Willie" Sudhoff, formerly of the St. Louis Browns, and George Ames of the Alta Sitas, and Ames had the best of the battle. Ames struck out 12 men and allowed only two hits, while Sudhoff struck out two and allowed five hits. The perfect fielding of Wynn at second base and the catching of Higgins for the Alta Sitas were other features of the game. The attendance was 2500.

At a meeting at the Jefferson School in Lansdowne Saturday night, to consider the question of annexation to East St. Louis, a resolution was passed declaring the sentiment of those present to be against the annexation at the present time.

The Fern Glens defeated the Billy Lees of St. Louis by a score of 8 to 5 Sunday afternoon at the East Side Athletic Park. The Lansdownes defeated the Elkcamps by a score of 7 to 4 at Lansdowne Park.

The body of William Sculley, 48 years old, who died Saturday morning at his home, 1136 Gaty avenue, was taken to Collinsville Monday morning for burial. He is survived by his wife and five children.

The funeral of Frank Stein, 57 years old, a farmer living at Twenty-second street and Boismenue avenue, who died of pneumonia Sunday, was held Monday afternoon from the family residence to Mount Hope Cemetery. He is survived by his wife and several children.

The body of Mrs. Mary E. Sloan, 47 years old, who died Sunday of heart failure at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Bunch, 220 Collinsville avenue, was taken to Odin, Ill., Monday morning for burial.

The funeral of Miss Margaret Higgins, 31 years old, who died of tuberculosis Sunday at her home, 1221 Cleveland avenue, will be held Tuesday morning from St. Patrick's Church to Mount Carmel Cemetery.

AFRAID OF A "VOODOO."

Lost Photograph Gives Negroes Grave Concern.

In dire alarm lest a lost photograph of William McAfee, a negro janitor, has been found by some malignant person skilled in "voodoo," and may be employed to put a "conjure" on the janitor and cause him a lingering, horrible death, Mrs. McAfee and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Liza Long, are desperately availing themselves of every means they can think of to recover it.

The assistance of the Sunday Post-Dispatch was enlisted, and the afflicted women are relying mostly on the following advertisement:

"PHOTO—Lost, Sunday night, on a Bellefontaine car, photograph of a colored gentleman. Please return an janitor, Fraternal bldg., Eleventh and Franklin."

Few things more frightful can happen to a person, according to the old plantation superstitions, than to have one of his pictures fall into the hands of an enemy. The unlucky subject of the picture is thus placed entirely at the mercy of the finder, it is believed.

Mrs. McAfee is particularly alarmed because her husband's photograph, being nearly full size, exposes almost his entire person to mischief.

If the "conjure doctor" is an amateur, or has some mercy, he may end the agony at once and cause the janitor's instantaneous dissolution by thrusting a pin through the picture's heart.

But he may, thinks Mrs. McAfee, prolong the torture by sticking pins in the limbs of the picture, and gradually extend the thrusts to the vitals, eventually causing death. Or, if he is a fiend, fears she, he may bury the picture, face downwards, in the earth, thus causing the janitor to wither and decay at exactly the same rate as that of the decomposition of the photograph in the earth.

McAfee says that he is not as yet conscious of the effects of any machinations against his health, but supposes that, if his picture was found by a "voodoo," he has not yet had leisure to begin his spells.

The picture was lost Sunday night on a Bellefontaine car by McAfee's sister, Mrs. Liza Long of 2830 Laclede avenue. McAfee is janitor of the Fraternal Building, Eleventh street and Franklin avenue.

STOCK MARKET OPENS HIGHER

Advances Not Large—Industrials Average Best—Tone Good.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 29, 1 p. m.—The market was strong and advancing all forenoon. Union Pacific was the leader, and more than one large banking house is said to be buying for accumulation to stock. It advanced two points, and most of the other market favorites among the rail issues advanced 1 to 2 points. The sales to noon, 254,000 shares, indicated only fair trading for the day.

NEW YORK, April 29, 9:30 a. m.—The opening was higher, but the advances did not average over a ½ point.

On the rail side there were few low offerings, many opening at the closing figures of Saturday.

On the industrial side the openings were nearly all higher, the trading in fair volume the first half hour and numerous advances of a point made over openings ½ to ¾ of a point above Saturday's finals.

NEWS FORECAST FOR THE WEEK

Taft's Announcement, Submarine Race, Zion City Crisis and Other Events.

Political interest this week centers in the possibility of a definite announcement of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for President on the part of Secretary of War William H. Taft. Today he is to address the Business Men's Club at Cincinnati, but in view of the fact that he seems to have tabooed politics in his public utterances since going to Ohio it is considered doubtful whether he has anything to say in definition of his position at this meeting. Before he leaves for the West he is expected to confer with some of his Ohio political friends and some positive action may result.

About 1000 delegates are expected to attend the convention of the International Kindergarden Union, which will be held in New York City beginning on Monday and continuing four days.

A novel test to determine how to expend the $3,000,000 appropriated by Congress for purchasing sumarine boats for use in the navy will be commenced off Newport, R. I., on Tuesday. The Holland boat Ocotopus, and the Simon Lake boat Lake, which take part in the contest, which is intended to determine which is the more available type for the navy. Tests for speed, quickness at diving and ability to dive deeply will be made.

Crisis at Zion City.

The question as to who will rule Zion City, built under the direction of the late John Alexander Dowie, is expected to come to an issue on Wednesday, as Wilbur Glenn Voliva has issued an ultimatum declaring that unless the people accept him as their head by May 1 he will take radical action to assert his control.

The independent cigarmakers at Havana have decided to close their factories April 29 in sympathy with the strikers of the tobacco combine, and as a result 9000 cigarmakers will be out of employment. The combine's employes struck two months ago to compel the payment of wages in American instead of Spanish money.

The International Maritime Exposition, organized by the French Naval League, will open at Bordeaux, May 1, and continue until Oct. 31. The exposition is to commemorate the centennial anniversary of the invention of steam navigation by Robert Fulton. The United States, Great Britain, Russia, Italy, Japan, Belgium, Mexico and France have sent exhibits and in some cases warships.

Over 300 members of the Vienna Mannergesang Verein, accompanied by their conductors, Kremsor and Heuberger, are due to arrive at New York May 4, on board the German steamer Oceania from Genoa. Concerts will be given in New York, Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Buffalo and Milwaukee.

Elections for members of the Spanish Senate will be held May 5.

SOUGHT A PLACE TO SLEEP.

Artis Fell Into Basement and Broke His Leg.

Samuel Artis, aged 49, will be lame for life and will be compelled to remain at least six weeks in the City Hospital as the result of his desire to enter the basement of the Grand-Leader Building at 5 o'clock Monday morning.

Artis was found by a night watchman lying in the basement moaning that his leg was broken. Above the spot where he was lying was a broken window pane.

Artis says he broke into the building deliberately but not with burglarious intentions. He had been drinking in several saloons, he said, and had simply decided to find a place to sleep. Wandering into the alley in the rear of the Grand-Leader Building, he concluded that the basement there would provide a cozy couch. So, he says, he broke a small window pane, crawled through feet first, hung by his finger tips and expected his feet to touch ground.

"But they didn't," he told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "Then I wanted to pull myself back, but I couldn't. I yelled for some one to come and pull me out, but nobody came. I held on long as I could but had to let go finally, and down I went. It seems to me I fell a long way."

The basement is said to be about fifteen feet deep. Artis' right leg was fractured. Artis says he is a housemover and that he lives with his wife at 2944 Lucas avenue.

New Clubhouse Inspected.

Members of the Liederkranz Club paid a visit of inspection Sunday to the new clubhouse, which is being built at Grand and Magnolia avenues. The structure will probably not be ready for occupancy before Sept. 1. The interior will be divided into three parts. On the first floor of the front section will be a billiard hall and a card room, connected by a rathskellar. In the middle section will be the banquet hall and kitchen, and in the rear the palm room, overlooking a garden. The concert hall will occupy the second floor, and the third floor will be given over to directors' rooms and servants' quarters. E. N. Tolkacz is president of the club. The Building Committee is composed of Jacob Walter, Gustav Cramer, Louis Hilfer, J. H. Meyer, Louis Schaefer and Henry Homann.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

A latter-day philosopher once said that a man might safely marry on no larger capital than a 50-cent piece and a clean shirt. Another opinion is that the venture should not be made upon less than a million a year. Rev. J. G. M. Luttenberger, who spoke on the "Incompatibility of Life" before a large audience of men at the Central Y. M. C. A. Sunday, has a theory of his own on the subject, and a table of figures. Get married, young man, is his advice.

It is best for a young man to marry, but he should count the cost, he said. While the table he has compiled is based upon a cost of $1500 a year, he says that this ca nbe safely reduced to $900 a year. "Many in good society live on $900 a year," he declared.

Rev. Mr. Luttenberger's table calculates an actual expenditure of $1256, with the expectation of a bank balance of $235 at the end of the year.

To keep this balance and pay the costs set forth in the table, there must be a $1500 income. The table estimate allows something less than $6 weekly for table expenses. The house rent should not be more than $25 monthly. These are the largest items. The husband is allowed $150 yearly for clothing. The wife is allowed $150 for the same purpose. Her needs in this respect, Rev. Mr. Luttenberger thinks, are no greater than those of the husband. He allows $100 a year pin money for both.

His table contains no item regarding coal or other fuel, or gas or other light.

Rev. Mr. Luttenberger said that a young man should marry before he is 24, and should choose a companion from four to six years his junior.

"With these figures before us," he said, referring to his table, "we see that a $1500 man can have $235 deposited in the bank at the end of each year. But better still, he can take advantage of buying property on the sensible installment plan system. These amounts could be reduced in a more economic way. But the above facts are given to show how many incompatibilities in life could be removed if every aggressive young man would arrange to divide his income with some lovable young maiden, who may not only brighten his home, but aid society and the church and nation."

Rev. Mr. Luttenberger is pastor of the Carondelet Christian Church, and has drawn large congregations by his habit of preaching practical sermons. His text in the discourse on marriage was: "Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken and the other left."

Saloon Building Burned.

A two-story concrete building in Overland Park, on the Creve Coeur line, built several months ago by James McDermot, who announced his intention of starting a saloon there, was burned to the ground early Monday. The loss is estimated at $3500. McDermott petitioned the county authorities for a saloon license. The protest of residents of Overland Park was so vigorous that the petition was denied. Since then the building has been vacant. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

WHEAT SUFFERS SHARP DECLINE

Heavy Liquidation Caused by Reported Kansas Rains and Lower Cables.

OTHER GRAINS LOWER

Cash Demand Slow—Statistical News Bearish—Northwestern Movement Heavy.

Local wheat was offered in a liberal volume Monday and declined steadily, the close being ⅝@¾c lower for the day. Corn closed ⅛c higher to ½c lower, and oats unchanged to ⅝c lower.

May wheat opened ½@⅝c lower at 77⅝c, declined to 77⅛c and closed at 77⅛@¼c, sellers. July wheat opened ⅝@½c lower at 80⅜c, declined to 79⅞@80c and closed at 80⅛c bid. Sept. wheat opened ¼@⅜c lower at 82¼@⅜c, declined to 81¾c and closed at 81⅞c asked.

May corn opened ¼c lower at 47⅝c, declined to 47@⅛c, declined to 47⅞@48c and rallied at the close to 48½c bid. Sept. corn opened ⅛c lower at 48⅜c, declined to 48½c and closed at 48⅜c bid.

May oats opened ⅝c lower, at 41¼c, and recovered to Saturday's close, 41⅞c. July oats opened ⅛c lower, at 39⅝c, and closed at 39c.

Liverpool cables closed ⅞d to ⅛d lower on wheat. Paris closed unchanged to ¾c lower on wheat and unchanged on flour. Berlin wheat closed 1¼c lower, and Budapest wheat 3⅛c higher. The visible supply of wheat increased 785,000 bu and now amounts to 52,776,000 bu, against a decrease of 2,722,000 bu, with 41,221,000 bu in sight at the same time last year. World's shipments of wheat were 11,408,000 bu, against 12,656,000 bu last week and 10,040,000 bu a year ago. Wheat on ocean passage is reported at 51,144,000 bu, against 50,592,000 bu last week and 51,600 bu a year ago.

Wheat poured in from all sources in the early trading on the market. The sharply lower cables helped to weaken prices, but the principal weakening factors were the reports of rains in Kansas, Nebraska and the Southwest. Several damage reports were received, but received no attention, and many of the longs sold out, being of the opinion that the rains and predictions of more to come, will create bearish sentiment, whether conditions were relieved or not. The demand was of the scattered character, and was very small even at the recession, and prices declined ¾@⅞c. Trading was rather quiet throughout and the close was at a slight reaction from the low point and was ⅝@¾c lower for the day. The cash demand for wheat was slow, and prices were weak. Receipts of wheat at all primary points were 1,004,000 bu, against 494,878 bu last year, and shipments were 279,769 bu, against 484,000 bu last year. Local receipts were 71,000 bu, against 39,265 bu last year, and shipments were 27,375 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour for the day were 16,800 bu.

The decline of over a penny in Liverpool corn and the weakness in wheat affected corn and some heavy long liquidation appeared in the early trading. The demand was poor and prices declined steadily, reaching level ¾c to ⅞c lower than Saturday's close. The class was slightly above the low point for the near option, a full recovery being made in the distant. The visible supply of corn decreased 1,293,000 bu, and now amounts to 9,074,000 bu, against a decrease of 2,675,000 bu, with 4,399,000 bu in sight at the same time last year. World's shipments of corn were 4,779,000 bu, against 2,299,000 bu last week and 3,364,000 bu a year ago. The amount of corn on ocean passage is reported at 9,653,000 bu, against 8,270,000 bu last week, and 8,280,000 bu a year ago. Cash corn prices were lower, and the demand poor. Receipts of corn at all primary points were 561,000 bu, against 568,845 bu last year, and shipments were 627,989 bu, against 136,515 bu last year, and shipments were 80,555 bu. Clearances of corn for the day were 372,000 bu.
foflalcosefl0002yaihofcCfi-fif,u m m m

The declines in other grains weakened oats, and early prices were sharply lower, but a recovery was made in May option, which closed steady for the day, July closing at the low point, and ⅝c lower for the day. The oats market was quite active. The visible supply of oats decreased 81,000 bu, and now amounts to 9,865,000 bu. The cash demand for oats was slow and prices were easier. Primary receipts of oats were 745,813 bu, with shipments of 522,259 bu, and local receipts were 140,800 bu. Oats clearances were 13,000 bu.

The cash demand at Minneapolis was good, and No. 1 Northern wheat was 3¼c to 3½c over May option, with No. 2 ¼@¾c over. Following are the Northwestern car lots: Minneapolis—412, against 317 last year. Duluth—224, against 50 last year. Winnipeg—390, against 318 last year. Toledo—806, against 686 last year.

SLAY MAN, WOUND HIS WIFE.

Men Break Into Couple's Home With an Ax.

CHICAGO, April 29.—Crashing through an outer door with an ax, three men attacked John Morris and his wife with knives, in their home, 52 Sholto street, early yesterday. They left Morris dead and his wife severely wounded. The motive for the murder is believed by the police to have been revenge for an affront placed on the men by Morris, their former friend, in ordering them from his home one night last week. The deed was accomplished after the couple had barricaded the door against them with every movable piece of furniture at hand.

Nevada Chautauqua July 10.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEVADA, Mo., April 29.—The Nevada Chautauqua Assembly has completed its arrangements for the second annual meeting, to be held at Lake Park Springs, Nevada's beautiful health resort, July 10 to 20. The famous "Kilty Scotch Highland Band" opens the course, to be followed each day by noted lecturers in the afternoon and entertainers and glee clubs at night. The morning Bible hour will be a strong feature, and the Seeton Indian work will entertain and instruct the children.

Lake Park Springs is an ideal camping place and health resort, and the electric street railway furnishes a 15-minute car service during the entire Chautauqua. A large amphitheater supplies a cool and comfortable place in which to hold the exercises.

The officers of the Assembly are J. W. Talbot, president, and H. L. Kingsland, secretary.

ST. LOUIS STOCKS FIRM AND DULL

Volume of Transactions Materially Reduced at Forenoon Session, But Value of Shares Sold About the Same as Last Week Single Sessions—Bond List Firm, Inactive.

Number of shares sold forenoon session, 51; value of shares, $17,499.

The forenoon session of the Stock Exchange was the dullest in the volume of transactions that has been held in several weeks. Only two issues were traded in—both trust stocks.

The opening trade was one share of Missouri-Lincoln, Trust stock, unchanged at 124, and at that figure there was no persistent inquiry for more shares.

Bank and trust issues generally were not in strong demand as the prices remained about the high levels of Saturday and the latter days of last week. One change noted was the quotation ½ point higher bid for St. Louis Union Trust. One sale of Mercantile Trust stock was made of 50 shares at unchanged from the last selling price of 5 shares, which was 347½. This price is ½ higher than has been bid for several days for Mercantile.

The value of the shares sold about equaled that of the ordinary forenoon session. The bond market remains firm, but not active at the forenoon session.

JUMPED FROM WINDOW.

Barber Died Later in the City Hospital From Injuries.

Vincent Munch, a barber of 1303 South Third street, who jumped from the second-story window of a room where he had been locked by his sister, Mrs. Caroline Mussler of 1220 South Third street, died at the City Hospital Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Mussler told the police that her brother had been drinking Saturday night when he came to her house. He was obstreperous, she said, and she locked him in a room which overlooked the street. Policeman Marshall of the Wyoming street station found the man sitting on the curb near the house and sent him to the hospital. He was suffering with a fractured skull and a dislocated knee. Munch was 38 years old.

BREWERY RECEIVERS SEIZE 9 BUILDINGS

Motion to Take Charge of Busch Property to Be Heard Thursday.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

TOPEKA, Kan., April 29.—The three receivers appointed by the Supreme Court last week to take charge of the property in Kansas of eight outside brewing companies and a real estate concern run by one liquor firm, made its report to the court here today. The report shows that the receivers are holding nine buildings, four at Atchison and five at Leavenworth. They also are in possession of a large assortment of bars, fixtures and mirrors. Not much liquor has been taken. Most of the places where seizures were made have been saloons, and the liquor was claimed by persons other than the brewing companies.

The receivers believe that the brewery companies will take some action to protect their property now that the first report of the seizures has been formally filed.

The brewery attorneys say they are waiting for definite authority on how to proceed. Thursday next the motion to appoint a receiver for the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co. will be heard in the Supreme Court. This company was the only one of the foreign concerns to fight the move for receiverships, and it was not included in the list of companies for which receivers were named.

COTTON.

ST. LOUIS, April 29.

New York opening: May, 4 down at 9.81; July, 4 down, at 9.88; Oct., 5 down at 10.04.

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton in moderate demand; middling, 1 point lower. Sales, 8000 bales. Receipts are 8000 bales, of which 4800 are American. At 12:30 o'clock the market was easy, 2½ to 4 points lower for near and 4½ to 7 lower for distant options.

FINANCIAL.

Cash reserves of St. Louis banks are suffering no marked depletion as yet, the result of shipments of money to the interior. This condition is no doubt due to the fact that there have been liberal mercantile remittances from the interior. The banks, however, look for heavier currency shipments and a steady increase in the volume from this week on to crop-moving time.

Gov. Francis' secretary, at his St. Louis office, Monday morning received a telegram from Mr. Francis dated at Baltimore, Md. The telegram concerned business matters, and Secretary Thompson hastened to wire the Governor that he is expected in St. Louis Tuesday night at the banquet to be given in his honor by the Latin-American celebration of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. On the receipt of a second wire Secretary Thompson said Gov. Francis would leave Baltimore Monday at 1 o'clock over the Pennsylvania line and arrive in St. Louis at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday.

Call money opened on the New York Stock Exchange Monday at 2¼, and on second quotation was 2 bid, offered 2¼.

A representative of the largest mercantile house in the country on its line said Monday that the trade is not withholding orders and that the talk of restriction of trade has distinct origin in New York financial circles. The particular establishment in question, its representative says, will from all indications record the banner year of its existence in the trade line.

A glance at the stock transfer books of some of the premier railway corporations of the country has disclosed a healthy gain in number of small shareholders, clearly indicative of a renewal of public interest in these issues. How far this applies to St. Louis corporations would be very interesting to learn. National Bank of Commerce shares, for example, are probably more widely distributed at the present time than ever before. The same is true of most of the other bank and trust company issues in this city. United Railways of St. Louis stocks are also more generally owned than previously in their career. The situation shows an appreciation of investment opportunities which is significant.

Tailer & Co., who have been offering Missouri Equipment Trust 5s to net 5½ per cent, have, it is understood, placed the major portion of their offerings. The equipment bonds show a cash equity of 10 per cent each.

Local bank clearings and balances: Clearings for Monday, $10,241,482; last week, $11,338,027. Balances for today, $879,374; last week, $726,675. Decrease clearings, $1,096,545; increase balances, $152,699.

SEEKS HUSBAND AND HER SISTER

Man Whom Widow Married at Husband's Deathbed Request Disappears.

SENT GIRL FROM HOME

Husband Objected to Her Presence, but She Now Doubts His Motive.

Mrs. May Ott of 1430 North Nineteenth street has asked the police to find her husband, George Ott, and her half sister, Lulu Wilson. Mrs. Ott believes the two have left the city.

She says she married Ott, her third husband, because of a promise made to her second husband, Vincent Browner, when Browner was on his death bed. Browner said that Ott was his best friend, and that it was his last and only wish that she marry Ott.

Mrs. Ott told a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday that she did not love Ott, but promised her husband to fulfil his last request. Ott had nursed Browner up to the time of his death.

"George kept asking me to marry him and to fulfil my husband's wish," she said, "and I just had to do it. I thought something would happen to myself or my children if I didn't.

"We have been married only seven months, and during that time George did not contribute to the support of the house. I had a little money, and George lived on it.

"He worked about two weeks in a box factory, and during that time he brought his unopened envelope home and gave it to me.

"A month ago Lulu Wilson, my half-sister, came to live with me and I took her in. She had no other relative in the city. She seemed to keep my husband at a distance, and my husband did not speak very kindly to her. Several men came to see her, but she never brought them into the house. She always met them downstairs in the yard.

"One day George came to me and said he did not think Lulu ought to be in our house. He advised me to send her away. I told Lulu she would have to pack her trunk and leave. She did not quarrel with me, but left in a friendly sort of way.

"She moved to a boarding house on Biddle street, near Eighteenth. My husband was not working and I told him to try to get work. He always pointed to his right hand, which was crippled, and said that no one would give him work because of his hand.

Said He Worked Overtime.

George got work then, and when he came home to supper he would say that he would have to work overtime and would not get home until late. I do not now believe that he worked overtime, as he said.

"Saturday night about 8 o'clock George put on his Sunday clothes and said he was going to the barber shop and get a shave. He told me that he would be back in half an hour, and would then go to market with me.

"Before he left the house, he took his new hat from the wardrobe, and when I asked him why he was wearing his new hat to the barbers he said that the old one sat too low on his head and was always in his eyes.

"George kissed me five or six times, more than he ever did at one time before, and when he got into the yard he threw a kiss to me. When he got on the street he repeated this, but I paid no attention to him. That was the last I saw of him. He seemed very affectionate, but looked as though there was a great burden on his mind.

"When he did not return after a long time, I went to Lulu's boarding-house. The landlady said that George had called about 9 o'clock and had gone away with Lulu."

Mrs. Ott, who has been married three times, said she has enough of marriage. A divorce terminated the first marriage. She disavows intention of seeking a divorce from Ott, saying she does not wish to enable him to marry again.

Mrs. Ott has three children, Belle Meyer, aged 14; Lee Meyer, 12, and May Browner, 6.

At the boarding house where Miss Wilson stayed, the landlady said Monday that Ott called on the young woman three times, the last time being the night of his departure. At that time, it was stated, he came smooth shaven, having formerly worn a mustache. Miss Wilson, it was said, went away with him. She did not carry anything at the time, but the next day, when she did not return, it was found that everything but her trunk had been taken from her room.

The landlady said that a man called on her Sunday and offered to pay $3 rent which Miss Wilson had owed. On the advice of Mrs. Ott, who was there at the time, she refused to accept the money.

Miss Wilson is described as 21 years old, having gray eyes and light reddish hair. She wore a brown silk dress and a jacket of the same color when she left.

FISHING, HOOKS 3 BODIES.

Infants Were Tied Up in Bundle of Clothing.

ELGIN, Ill., April 29.—While fishing in Fox River yesterday Stephen Boras hooked a bundle of clothing which he pulled ashore and found it contained the bodies of three infants, twin boys and a girl.

Coroner Norton is of the opinion that the bodies may have been hurled from a passing train. The clothing found with them was of fine quality, but had no marks.

Horse-Thief Goes Insane.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., April 29.—Louis Painter, an ex-convict, who stole a team of horses here last Saturday and was captured at Warrensburg, became violently insane in the County Jail. Painter was laboring under the hallucination that his three cellmates had robbed him in a gambling game and he tried to kill them. He was overpowered by his cellmates after a desperate struggle and deputy sheriffs removed him to a padded cell. Painter was sent up from Buchanan County for burglary and completed a two years' sentence in the Penitentiary last Friday.

PURSUED BY NEGRO MOB.

Black Wife Murderer Escapes Would-Be Lynchers.

Two hundred or more angry negroes, equipped with guns and ropes, pursued Walter Ogg, also a negro, over the hills and bluffs at Alton Sunday after he had shot and killed his 15-year-old wife. Two bullets entered her breast, one penetrating the heart. An infant which she held in her arms escaped injury.

The shooting occurred at 1 p. m. at Pearl and Garden streets as the couple was returning from the home of the wife's parents and followed a quarrel in which Ogg accused his wife of infidelity.

Many negroes witnessed the killing and pursued Ogg, led by the father of the dead girl. The crowd was so large the police were unable to disperse it. Many had guns and several were equipped with ropes to lynch Ogg if captured.

A thorough search was made and the bluffs and hills scoured from one end to the other.

The police fear trouble from the negroes if Ogg is apprehended. He is 23 years of age, very black and short of stature. The negroes believe he is hiding in the city.
